Livingston named to planning commission

Comish commotion! Appointment called hasty

In Poohar's wake, Rolle falls to split decision by council

By PAUL WOLF

SOMETIMES OF one mind, sometimes sharply divided, the Carmel City Council picked Carl Livingston as a new planning commissioner, failed to select Louis Rolle, and engaged in a brief but bitter debate over the selection process.

Bulletin!

NEWLY-APPOINTED planning commissioner Carl Livingston was not be able to assume his duties and did not take part in Wednesday's zoning debate hearings because officially he did not have a seat to assume, The Carmel Pine Cone learned yesterday afternoon at deadline.

Livingston could not be sworn in on Wednesday, according to City Atty. Don Freeman, because technically he is filling Jim Miller's vacancy, which is not effective until after the Wednesday meeting.

"No one called me," Freeman said, explaining the apparent oversight.

Livingston's appointment came exactly two weeks after Commissioner Stephen Poohar was pressured by Mayor Ken White and three other council members to resign. It also comes shortly after Commissioner Jim Miller announced his resignation for personal reasons.

At the meeting, Councilwoman Barbara Brooks, traveling on family business, was conspicuous in her absence Tuesday afternoon, and she made way for some 2-2 decisions.

Unanimously, the four council members selected Livingston, a retired retail consultant, to fill one of the two vacancies on the seven-member council.

Yet voting on Louis Rolle, they split 2-2 (with Bob Fischer and Phil Coniglio dissenting), failing to give the retired businessman the needed majority. They also split on the same lines on a motion to give Rolle another chance with when Brooks has returned.

After the meeting, Mayor Ken White told The Carmel Pine Cone he was not sure whether he would attempt to re-nominate Rolle once the full council is assembled.

Even before any votes were cast, Fischer and Coniglio expressed their displeasure with White's calling a special meeting to select two commissioners using only the existing pool of applicants. They wanted to reopen the search for candidates.

There were three names — Livingston, Rolle and lighting designer Roger Rector — remaining on file from a selection process carried out in late May when Commissioner Maggie Hardy was selected. White was eager to get new commissioners on board before Wednesday's commission public hearing on the weighty downtown question.

Mayor White hopes to start citizens' budget committee

By PAUL WOLF

IN THE wake of a private study critical of Carmel-by-the-Sea's budget management over the past five years, Mayor Ken White intends to propose the idea of forming an advisory citizens' budget committee.

"There were a lot of good things to come out of this study," said White, referring to a budget study carried out jointly by the Voice of Carmel and the Carmel Citizens for Good Government.

The study concludes the city has been engaging in deficit spending over the past five years and has balanced its budget by drawing generously from reserve funds.

"Over the past five years, the city's operating revenues have increased by 5 percent while expenditures have increased 27 percent," the report states.

It finds that the city's 1991-92 budget deficit was $1.1 million out of a $8.4 million budget — a shortfall covered by "drawing down" reserves.

White said he would introduce the idea of a committee to his council colleagues. "It was a very interesting study," he said. "I don't have any problems with it."

Misread or misunderstood

Neither did Sandi Davenport, the city's budget manager, who said "additional public information is always valuable." Nevertheless, she added, "I think the way it (the study) is being perceived by the public is a misperception."

Davenport was concerned that the findings could be misread or misunderstood. "A reserve fund is like a savings account,"

River School gets county support

By SUSAN BECK

MONTEREY COUNTY is supportive of Carmel Unified School District's decision to consider relocating River School, but all the standard requirements will need to be enforced.

According to Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman moving River School to a new location is a "high undertaking" that must be approached carefully.

"The school district must meets all the obligations for an appropriate infrastructure," said Strasser Kauffman.

A consulting firm is studying the feasibility of selling River School and building a new facility on a 10-acre district-owned parcel next to Carmel Middle School in Carmel Valley.

If the decision is made to go ahead with the planned move the county will give some exemption to zoning, but all other considerations such as water allocation and traffic impact will be treated the same as any other new building project.

Strasser Kauffman said that closing one facility down and building a new more efficient structure may take care of the water allocation, but the major challenge would be traffic.

She suggested that connecting Rio Road to Middle School would probably be reviewed again.

"The school district needs documented proof of the need to relocate. We will consider the overriding social considerations for example the need for education facilities that are proper and safe, but there will have to be a traffic study as well," said Strasser Kauffman.

She said that one advantage is that River School and Middle School are both in the county's jurisdiction.

"I encouraged the district to meet internally, with the parents, and with the community at large. It's always hard to have a change. I know because my own children were in Carmelo School when the decision was made to move the school out to Tularcitos. I know how attached families are to their local school," said Strasser Kauffman.

Latest work: The Spoken Word

Editor's note: This week we are pleased to bring our readers another in a series of sketches celebrating our resident writers and artists. Editorial

A responsible newspaper

FOR MONTHS now we've kept an editorial from The Journal of the San Juan Islands on the corner of our desk, waiting for the right time to put it to use. The newsprint is a bit yellowed now and the center crease has obliterated some of the words, but the message remains clear.

The title of the editorial, which was written by Frank Leeming, is "Who should the newspaper be published for?" Leeming has since sold his newspaper, and the new publisher, Phil Ballard, gave us permission to quote.

But first, a comparison.

The San Juan Islands, like Carmel, is a tourist destination. There are residents for and residents against that fact. Against that background, and under some fire from a segment of his readership, Leeming was asked by the San Juan Lions Club to discuss an editor's responsibilities to his readers.

We thought his comments to the Lions, which were then reprinted as an editorial , were of universal interest and we quote the following excerpt.

"We must remain financially solvent so our readers have a newspaper to read and our advertisers have a medium for their messages.

"We must report the news of the community.

"We must be accurate, fair and consistent as possible.

"We must do all we can to make people think — not agree with us, but think.

"We must keep our pages open to all views and opinions, regardless of what they are.

"We must use the beam of our search light to reveal things others would conceal.

"We must reflect the community as it is, not as we and others wish it to be."

Like The Journal of the San Juan Islands , The Carmel Pine Cone is responsible to the residents of our community, to the business community and to the tourists, and like The Journal we know we can't satisfy everyone, but we don't know any other way to do it.

Thank you Frank Leeming and Phil Ballard.

Loves River School

Dear Editor:

AAAAAHHHHHKKKKK!!!!!! Sell my school!!!??????????? I'm a student at River School going into fifth grade and I love going to River School because:

1: It is very close to most of the kids' houses.

2: It is so close to the beach which means the classes can walk to the beach, which means you don't have to go on a bus just go to the beach.

I don't want it to move because:

1: If the school did move, a lot of kids could not walk home.

2: I worry that if River School was next to middle that the younger kids would be bothered by the 7th and 8th graders.

I believe most of the kids who go to Carmel River School would agree with me.

Long-term parking

Dear Editor:

Since you brought up the subject of parking, we have a question for you.

There has been a green truck parked on the corner of Fourth and Mission for over nine weeks. All the neighbors wonder why this has been allowed.

Individual responsibility

Dear Editor:

This malady is not unique to Carmel — it's especially obvious in politics, right now. The sickness is one of blaming everything and everyone else for existing problems.

However, at this time Carmel's problem seems urgent to me and maybe there is more that I could accomplish in a small way, in my own backyard.

I know, as do many other shopkeepers in Carmel, that our lack of business is in part due to a recession, particularly in California.

But it is not due to parking! There are empty spaces everywhere, even in the summer. It's not due to zoning, most of us don't care. It's not due to high rents everywhere. Some of us have reasonable landlords.

What the major problem is individual responsibility. Carmel, Carmel Valley and Pebble Beach etc. all want to keep Carmel-by-the-Sea a charming, classy town where residents can mingle happily with tourists, but somewhere down the line a very negative attitude has been adopted by the very ones who complain about the town the most. They think our shops charge more so we can pay the landlord — not. I give 15 percent discount to all locals who are regular customers. We're not like Costco but would you want that?

I'm a big shopper. I have never seen a shop where there is price gouging. They're negative about parking. Not. It's so beautiful in Carmel. Even if it was a little crowded and you had to walk a couple of blocks, so what? You do it in the city or in Europe all the time. Check out the new two hour parking.

Shopkeepers are rude. Not. We love locals who support us. Identify yourself. Forget more parking. Forget arguments over zoning, forget blaming residents/businesses. Look at one person — yourself. Don't buy discount. Walk from your car. Be friendly to us. Save Carmel!

Dismayed by ouster

Dear Editor:

I was dismayed to read about the recent ouster of Stephen Poohar from the Carmel Planning Commission. While I am not familiar with the circumstances that led up to his forced resignation, I do know that Mr. Poohar was a dedicated and valuable member of the planning commission.

I have attended many of the planning commission's meetings. I also served with Mr. Poohar on the Ad Hoc Parking Committee during the first year of its existence. Mr. Poohar consistently made detailed and careful analyses of the issues before both of these groups, and his comments were always incisive and meaningful.

In gratitude

Dear Editor:

The posting of my closing out sale signs at my retail business, Palumbo, has caused many people in the community of Carmel-by-the-Sea to step in and inquire whether I am closing my store due to high rent.

I appreciate the inquiries of concern. They have prompted me to write to The Pine Cone to gratefully acknowledge the success of my retail business in part because of the good fortune of renting from my landlord, Mr. Malcolm Millard.

My lease at a prime corner location has been fair and equitable throughout my six years in business. Mr. Millard's genuine interest and commitment regarding his property and tenants is exceptional.

My thanks to Mr. Millard and my fellow business associates and patrons for a good business experience. I will miss you as I close shop and move out of state.

A bitter CRA cries prejudice over Rolle's defeat

Editor's note: The following statement, presented here in its entirety, was prepared by the board of directors of the Carmel Residents Association, a state-registered political action committee. The statement is in response to Tuesday's city council actions regarding appointments to the Carmel Planning Commission.

THE CARMEL Residents Association is looking into bringing action against city council members Bob Fischer and Phil Coniglio for violating the civil rights of Carmel residents by depriving them of the opportunity to serve their community on the planning commission for the one stated reason that they happen to be members of the village's largest organization of residents.

Lou Rolle is by general agreement a highly-qualified mayor's nominee for planning commission. To reject him on the sole basis that he is a member of a residents' group is prejudice and undoubtedly a denial of his civil rights. Just as no person can be denied his or her rights because of color, sex or religion, so membership in an organization devoted to upholding the best interests of our village cannot be used as a bar to service.

'The Senator McCarthy days of witch hunts for "Commies" and other subversives are over. There is no need to revive in Carmel-by-the-Sea either witch hunts, "litmus tests" or other forms of "ethnic cleansing.'
—CRA board of directors

Mr. Rolle's character and capacities are not defined by whether he is or is not a member of any village organization. That is also the case with all the 500 individuals—emphasize individuals—who choose to be members of the Carmel Residents Association. To serve notice on them that they need not apply for Planning Commission duty is an outrage.

The Senator McCarthy days of witch hunts for "Commies" and other subversives are over. There is no need to revive in Carmel-by-the-Sea either witch hunts, "litmus tests" or other forms of "ethnic cleansing."

Bridge is canvas for graffiti artists

By PAUL WOLF

AFTER A group of graffiti artists used the stately bridge at Mission Trails Park as their canvas last week, six man hours and $125 in paint was needed to repair the damage.

Public Works Director Jim Cullem is glad to know it is not every week that such follow-up labor is called for. Yet the summer has been cause for some concern.

That evening's lark for graffiti artists, Aug. 13, was a headache to Carmel city officials, who hope their small town isn't about to become subject to the kinds of offenses normally associated with the big city.

Twice this month, within the span of about a week, Mission Trails Park has been struck: First, it was the phone company's concrete duct near the wooden bridge just off Mountain View Avenue and Forest Road. Then it was the bridge itself, which was decorated with "an occult pentagram" and various demonic symbols and profane declarations — all in black and red paint.

"It seems to be a bunch of local youth, but we just don't know," said Carmel Det. Sgt. Pete Poitras, who complained of having neither witnesses nor leads.

See BRIDGE page 7

River School discussion

THE CARMEL Unified School District will move one step closer Thursday toward a decision on whether or not to sell the River Elementary School site and build a new school on land adjacent to Carmel Middle School.

The board will receive a progress report on from Enshallah, a San Jose-based consulting firm hired by the district to examine the feasibility of replacing River School.

"We'll follow a process of determining whether or not the idea has merit," said CUSD Superintendent Vance Baldwin. "We want to determine whether or not the idea is educationally, politically, and economically sound," he added.

When asked to speculate on prospective buyers for the nine-and-a-half acre parcel, Baldwin said "We're a long way from that." He said it's too early to speculate on the property's value, which will be determined in part by land-use policies and zoning laws in this unincorporated area of Carmel.

According to a Carmel realty company, it would take extensive research to estimate the value of the parcel.

"The Carmel area land-use plan designates the parcel as public or quasi-public," said Monterey County Coastal Planner Todd Bessire. He said this designation "allows for structures such as schools and churches." Bessire said an amendment to the county's land-use plan would be required to change zoning laws in the area.

Baldwin said the district will go through a "legal process of disposing of the school" if and when a decision is made to replace River School.

The district meeting will be held at 7 p.m. Aug. 27 in the district office conference room. The public is encouraged to attend.

But must we live with it?

Double-parking is fact of life in downtown Carmel

By SCOTT BREARTON

WHILE THE casual observer probably wouldn't believe it, Carmel-by-the-Sea does have a law regulating double-parking in the commercial district.

Most delivery truck drivers have been coming to town for such a long time that they are conscious of the narrow streets and problems they present, according to police. "They are as anxious to get out of there as you are," said Carmel Police Capt. Donald Fuselier.

To date, the city hasn't been carrying out an aggressive enforcement effort, but has preferred to educate new drivers about the rules. "Over a period of time, we've been educating drivers about the double-parking ordinance," Fuselier said.

When officers encounter a driver double-parked on the wrong side of the street, they present him with a one-page explanation of the double-parking ordinance — in essence, a written warning.

Fuselier said his department has issued "very few" citations to delivery drivers violating the double-parking law in the commercial district. Generally, he explained, "They've been very cooperative."

According to Carmel Police Officer Mel Mukai, downtown deliveries can be made any time during normal business hours. A commercially registered vehicle may double-park anytime when no parking spaces or loading zones are available, he said.

Just one catch

The only catch -- "You must show activity," Mukai said. "You can't just leave a truck double-parked while you go get a cup of coffee or something."

Mukai said that there are some restrictions on where delivery trucks can double-park, however. For example, on streets that run north-south, such as Mission and Dolores, double-parking by commercial vehicles is allowed only on the east side of the street.

Likewise, on those roadways that run east-west, such as the numbered avenues, double-parking is allowed on the north side only. Junipero and Ocean Avenues are excepted from the ordinance because of their width, according to police.

Mayor Ken White sees problems with the Carmel 2016 Committee Report, which envisions a central meeting place where delivery trucks could meet business owners to pick up merchandise.

"The problem with that idea is that goods must be handled twice," White said, adding that not all business owners have trucks to transport items from the meeting place to their stores, or necessarily want to participate in the plan.

White said narrow streets and the time of day that delivery trucks arrive in Carmel contribute further to traffic congestion in the village.

Not CBA's problem

"We don't have an official position on double-parking," said Toni Jepson, executive director of the Carmel Business Association. "There are already laws in place. We can't enforce them. I frankly feel that this is the police department's job," Jepson said.

"I haven't heard complaints about it from members and it (double-parking) hasn't come up at any of our meetings this year. We've got more important issues we're working on," Jepson added.

Police to merchants: watch credit cards

MERCHANTS AS well as customers are great enthusiasts when it comes to credit cards.

The speed and convenience they provide seem almost to hasten sales. Perhaps they do. But Carmel police, while understanding this devotion to credit cards on both sides of the counter, have just one bit of advice: Merchants, understand the risks.

"Many business people are under the impression that, if they get from a customer the card number and authorization (from the company), they are covered," said Carmel Det. Sgt. Pete Poitras. "If merchants choose to make a sale over the phone, they do so at their own peril."

A recent event in Carmel underscored such risks — even though in this case the business owner got lucky, according to Poitras.

Who is at risk?

The irony may be that it all comes down to that very unreliable item: the signature. But the fact remains that if a merchant takes a call from someone using another person's credit card number, it is the merchant who stands to lose. It is not the credit card company, as many people think, explained Poitras.

But if there is a signature the merchant can show, he or she is probably safe.

In Carmel, a business owner received a call from a woman who, providing a credit card number and return phone number, wanted to do buy a $1,300 crystal vase and have it shipped to Los Angeles. The merchant called American Express for authorization, and the company could not provide it.

Poitras explained, "There was a flag on the account — relating to the true card owner — which kept (the merchant) from getting authorization."

The woman remained insistent the shop owner send the merchandise, saying she would straighten everything out with American Express. The proprietor "began to smell a rat," and he called the phone company, said Poitras. The return phone number suggested the call originated from Jackson, Miss. Actually, it came from a phone booth in that city.

Jackson authorities told local police they knew of a number of similar phone calls originating from their area. But no further leads arose. Poitras added that nothing was garnered from an initial investigation in the L.A. area.

The shop owner in this case was lucky the true credit card owner had some small problem with her account. "No damage was sustained," Poitras said.

The message has become clear: This is a difficult kind of scam to track, and merchants are in the position of having to protect themselves. In the end, merchants are likely to continue to enjoy the blessings of credit cards. "But you should know," Poitras said, "that over the phone it is your loss."

Is 'fact of life' permanent?

Jepson did say that the CBA is concerned about the general issue of parking in the downtown area.

Alan Williams, chairman of Carmel's parking committee, has been working on such problems for three years. He acknowledges that double -parking is a problem, but says "a building block approach" must be used because the four components of the city's parking dilemma are interrelated.

Williams listed the following areas in order of priority: residential parking, day parking (for employees and employer's), visitor parking, and delivery truck and bus parking.

"You have to address the first priorities first. Right now our first priority is residential parking," Williams said, explaining that creating off-street parking is the only way curbside spaces can be freed up for the loading and unloading of commercial vehicles. He cited the loading zone in front of Nielsen Brothers Market as the type of off-street parking for commercial vehicles he'd like to see more of.

Williams, hoping to address root causes, explains that if there were fewer employees parked in the business district, double-parking would be of less concern.

Thinking logically

Alluding to his committee's proposed plans, Williams offers the following logic: Residents must be able to park in front of their homes. They cannot do so if employees and employers in the nearby business district are parking in their neighborhoods.

One function of a newly imposed trip-reduction ordinance is to provide residents with parking decals, which employees could purchase for a fee. Assuming that many would object to the fee, a percentage of workers will opt to buy a bus pass instead.

If enough employees purchase the decals, the city could build another parking lot or tasteful parking garage, freeing up curbside space for customers and commercial vehicles. If they opt to ride the bus instead, better yet.

Planning commission

There are, in fact, three vacancies to be filled by the end of September. However, White's plan was to fill two positions immediately and replace Chairwoman Carla Ramsey later. She will continue to serve through September.

Being rushed

Even before any votes were cast, Coniglio said, "I feel I'm being rushed into this. I would like to give people a little more time to apply. Similarly, Fischer said, "I would like to see a roster of a half dozen or a dozen people. There could be an extension. I am disillusioned with this process."

Councilwoman Barbara Livingston (ex-sister-in-law of Carl Livingston) stood by the mayor, saying "the word has already been out" through articles in the newspapers, and people have had opportunity to apply.

In recent days, White has complained that the new rules, which insure an open selection process with public interviews of every candidate, are too slow when new commissioners need to be selected quickly. White hopes for "refinements" to speed up the process; he said he does not have a problem with the guidelines that balance the makeup of the commission to insure certain professional backgrounds are not overrepresented.

"It's difficult to find time to cal l interviews," White said before the meeting. "I think (the rules) need to be adjusted to allow more time to act quickly upon resignations."

The two resignations in recent days came from commissioners Stephen Poohar and Jim Miller.

Yet while White is hoping to make the selection process faster, Fischer and Coniglio are concerned about haste with which White called the meeting.

"Basically we are stuck with two or three individuals (from which to chose), Fischer told the mayor.

Fischer noted that his vote against Rolle was part in protest against the process, and part "because I was against voting for two members of the CRA (Carmel Residents Association) at the same time."

The third vote

Carl Livingston is a CRA member, as are White, Barbara Livingston and Barbara Brooks. Had Brooks been at the meeting, she could have cast the third vote needed to put Rolle on the commission.

Asked about the council vote rejecting him, Rolle said he had no comment. Meanwhile, White told *The PineCone*he would approach Rolle and ask him if he would ~~be~~ interested in renomination.

"Louis Rolle has been a very successful businessman, and I think he would make an excellent commissioner for both the residents and the business community," said White.

In saying so, White was stressing what has been an ongoing theme of his since the start of the spring campaign — uniting the business and residential communities.

Another theme has been keeping the government process open. Coniglio argued White was undermining that cause by rushing. He said the council should provide more time to seek names because "the public is usually the last to know about these appointments."

Livingston straddles residential, business

By PAUL WOLF

CARL LIVINGSTON, appointed to a four-year term on the Carmel Planning Commission Tuesday afternoon, has a dual allegiance — to the business community and to residents.

"I hope to help the mayor accomplish his goal of bringing the business and the residential communities together," Livingston said in an interview with The Carmel Pine Cone.

"I hope as a commissioner I can do that. We have much greater common area than we realize. I think I have that neutral position. We can't get along without each other. Neither the residents nor the business people can live in isolation."

There is little doubt that Livingston, who speaks of having "a neutral position," hopes to straddle Carmel's traditional division. He is not interested in being mired in politics.

In recent years, the seven-member commission — which is the council's advisory land use panel — has reflected the divisions on the five-member council. Selecting commissioners has not always been a smooth task for council members, and the commissioners have appeared as partisans of certain political view points.

Merchant background

Livingston believes it is not inconceivable to please everyone if "common sense" and "good judgement" are employed.

Livingston, 70, moved to Carmel with wife Jean two and a half years ago, after buying their Dolores Street home. He was president of Livingston Bros., a women's clothing business with 18 stores in the Bay Area.

CARL LIVINGSTON

He admitted he is not well-studied on many of the issues now under commission review. For example, he did not have a position on the downtown zoning debate, which concerns whether to reduce three commercial zones to two.

Livingston is a member of the Carmel Residents Association, although not an active member. When he was interviewed May 26 by the city council filling a former vacancy, Livingston appeared to impress council members as not trying to fit into any mold, yet sympathizing with the CRA's basic thinking and preservationist orientation.

At the time, he was one of four applicants, and Maggie Hardy was chosen for the spot. She was another one expressing a desire to keep the advisory commission clear of politics.

Citizens' budget committee

she explained. "It's not unusual to use reserve funds, but unusual you return money to them. This year, we were not able to."

Earlier this summer, Davenport explained that one of the factors making the new fiscal year a tight squeeze is that the city will be replenishing $225,000 from its workmen's compensation fund, which was dipped all the way during the fiscal year ending in June.

The budget manager noted that most of what the report elucidates is not new, and in fact has been disclosed by the city in recent weeks.

Yet Davenport and White hope to take Carmel's Alan Williams and Howard Nieman — the key names behind the report — under their wing, so the private analysis can be carried out in cooperation with the city. "This a bad financial time right now and this is when the city and the citizens should be pulling together," Davenport said.

Williams and Howard Nieman were pleased with the helpfulness they encountered from Davenport, who confirmed the numbers for the report. Nieman did the lion's share of the project, which he said took three weeks.

Nieman said the report was conceived in part to lay the groundwork for a new Voice of Carmel survey, which will pose two questions to citizens about the city's management of the budget. On Monday, Aug. 24, Nieman told The Carmel Pine Cone the survey should be ready for mailing "within a week or so."

Seeing trends

Williams summarized the report. "We've been deficit-spending with our reserves for the past four or five years, and I don't think the city council is even aware of this. The way the budget is formulated you look at finances for a year or two; you don't look at them over four or five years. You don't look at trends."

Both Nieman and Williams said the city has about another year or 18 months before it has eaten away at all its remaining reserves — now under $2 million — if current practices prevail.

According to Nieman, the place where casual budget observers may have been fooled in recent years is whre they mistaking total "revenues," including incoming yanked out of reserve funds, with the more telling "operating revenues." The latter do not include "revenue transfers, refunds or money earned by the sale of equipment.

Other findings spelled out in the report are:

- That over the same five years, salary and benefit costs have increased by 39 percent.
- Over the same period, the city's debt service payments total $3,106,883 and have increased 120 percent.
- During that time, spending on building, equipment and street mainenance and other materials and services has decreased by 3 percent.

Asked about the idea of a citizens budget committee, Nieman said he would be willing to serve on such a committee, adding, "I think its an excellent idea."

More on budget

By PAUL WOLF

THE CRITICISM aimed at the city over its financial management may be tantamount to "hitting them when they're down."

Aside from taken shots, the city administration has been troubled on two counts: the recession — which has affected city revenue sources, and the state's plans to lay claim of city money — which could cost Carmel as much as $200,000 this fiscal year from property taxes and vehicle license fees.

The state has no budget and neither does the city. Nevertheless, cuts are in the works in expectation of the state's "pilfering" municipal funds, as Mayor Ken White recently described it.

The problem is Carmel officials don't know exactly how much they stand to lose. But with the recession, which has stunted motel tax revenues and taken a bite out of sales tax income, cuts would still be in order. "We'd still be looking at adjustments, even if the state did not have cuts (planned)," Davenport said.

Over the past two years, the city has carried out de facto cuts — that is, in the form of its hiring freeze, installed in November 1990. A total of six city employee positions have been "frozen," leaving the library departments from public works to city administration out employees.

As of yet, no employee cuts are planned. But the following are prepared for elimination:

- Private contracts at about $29,000 for gardening at city parks and open spaces. The duties will be absorbed by the city's forest and beach department.
- The Christmas Pointsetta program will be discontinued, a savings of $1,000 to $1,500
- No new decorative flowers will be planted in the coming year.

Carmel's water hookup plight

By PAUL WOLF

THE MONTEREY Peninsula Water Management District offered a compromise to Carmel residents caught in the middle of new water connection rules.

A three-member committee, which met Aug. 18, has recommended to the full water board that all applications for residential remodels submitted before Aug. 1 be "grandfathered in" under old water hookup rules, according to Brian Roseth, Carmel associate planner.

Carmel and other cities have complained about new rules the district set up under Ordinance 62, which the water board approved July 20. The ordinance was approved to relax the terms of the 19-month-old moratorium on new water connections. Whereas before no remodels were permitted before, limited remodels are now permitted under the terms of the relaxed moratorium.

The cities, including Carmel, objected to the provision that the water for these newly allowed projects be taken from each city's allocation.

If the committee's compromise is approved by the full board, it would help out some 20 applications now in limbo at the city planning department. The city wants to push these applications through but doesn't want to draw from its own allocation to do so. "I think we are making progress," said Roseth about the committee's willingness to be flexible.

The board is expected to consider the committee's recommendations at its next water board meeting Sept. 21. The committee included water directors Kenneth Long, Dick Heuer and David Pendergrass met Aug. 18.

Attending the special meeting Aug. 18 were private citizens and representatives from Carmel, Pacific Grove and Seaside.

The Carmel had a specific complaint that the water board was dictating land use — as opposed to water — policy. City officials objected to the idea that the board should declare that limited remodels could be processed but not the development of vacant lots. The water district, in effect, had reversed the priorities of Carmel's general plan, which places vacant lots first.

According to Roseth, however, the committee members did not agree with the interpretation that the district was usurping the city's policy-making discretion on land use.

Mission Trails bridge vandalized

Other incidents:

In another recent incident, a Chinese elm at Lincoln and Ocean had a slab of bark cut out of it. And in yet another, at the Court of the Golden Eagle, at Ocean And Lincoln, a peace symbol six inches in diameter was spray-painted on a wall.

"We don't know the cause of these incidents," said Poitras. "It may be just that it's summer time. We hope that this isn't going to catch on."

After the bridge at Mission Trails was defaced, public works officials quickly sprung into action; they didn't want these artists to have the inspiration of a possible audience.

Said Cullem, "We felt if we just left the graffiti, that would be encouraging others to do this. And we didn't want to do this."

Carmel fire crew joins Shasta strike team

CARMEL FIREFIGHTERS have joined the strike team fighting a massive blaze in Shasta County, which was reported Wednesday to be 60 percent contained.

The fire has destroyed over 300 homes, consumed more than 63,000 acres and forced thousands to evacuate.

The one engine dispatched from Carmel is one of nine units from jurisdictions within Monterey County jointing the battle.

The engine left Friday, Aug. 21, with a crew of one captain, one engineer and two firefighters, according to Carmel Battalion Chief John Trenner.

As of Monday, Aug. 24, a relief crew was headed up to the fire site to replace the first group on its 72-hour shift.

There are two engines in Carmel, according to Trenner, who said the village remains well-protected. In the event of a significant fire in Carmel, the area's own mutual-aid arrangement would guarantee engines from surrounding cities.

Park district's plan for Mill Creek still disputed by local residents

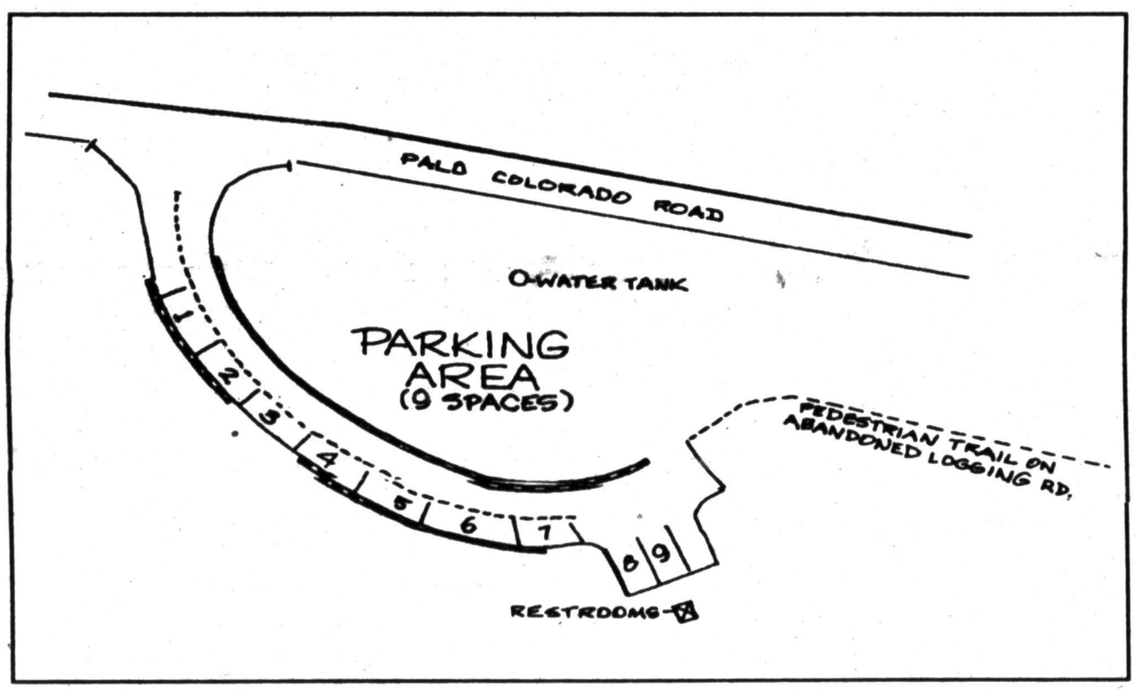
By SUSAN BECK

SOME PALO Colorado residents consider the regional park district's expansion policy as the main reason to oppose development at Mill Creek.

Dona Nye, a member of the Mill Creek Citizens Advisory Committee, is not in favor of any development at all. She maintains that this is just the beginning of some bigger plan by the park district.

Those residents in agreement with Nye still have time to make their case. The Mill Creek Preserve plan was delayed by county planning to review the park district's last minute changes in the proposed permit's 50 conditions, and to allow for time to visit the area Wednesday, Sept. 2, to view two sites being considered for a parking lot.

The proposed open space preserve development by the park district on 1,340-acres half way up Palo Colorado Canyon would consist of an entrance sign, nine parking spaces, a portable office trailer, toilets, fences, water tanks, pedestrian bridges, and a loop hiking trail about 1.5 miles along the old logging road.



"Why expand in an area when you already have 450 miles of trail on 350,000 acres just up the road at Bottcher's Gap," said Nye.

She referred to the Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary as an example of what she would rather have at Mill Creek. A wilderness sanctuary limits public access to environment research studies by small groups of people only a few times a year. "I participated in getting 7,001 names on a petition that stated a preference for a wilderness sanctuary. That's 10 percent of the voting population."

Nye's main concern is the potential of the park district to expand by purchasing adjacent properties. She contends that those purchases would increase the need to allow for additional public access.

Additional public access would create a need to add more facilities, and subsequently widen the road to accommodate an increase in traffic, which is already heavily impacted by existing traffic.

Nye's apprehension comes from an expansion clause in the development's project application stating that if property adjacent to or near the Mill Creek property is for sale, it is the intent of the park district board to investigate the prospects of purchase. The purchase considerations will include, but not be limited to consistency with the district master plan, which is to make lands purchased with public monies available to the public.

"There is no current expansion plan," said Zad Leavy, a park district board member. "There is no money now to buy land. There might be some funds in the future, but for all practical purposes, we are running out of money now. And, I don't know of anyone willing to sell."

Leavy said that even if the park district could acquire property adjacent to Mill Creek it would be necessary to go to the county and Coastal Commission to obtain a permit. In addition, there would be public hearings.

As for making Mill Creek a wilderness sanctuary, Leavy said that was impossible. "The Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary is a private organization on private property. Mill Creek has to be somewhat available to the public to justify the use of public money."

The hiking trail will be limited by reservation to eight cars and/or 25 visitors at a time. "It's not going to be advertised and essentially it will be the people that already go to Bottcher's Gap. If there are too many requests for reservations, we will stop issuing hiking permits," said Leavy.

Initially, the Big Sur Land Trust bought the property as a response to Palo Colorado residents who were opposed to the California Department of Forestry's decision to allow extensive logging of Redwoods at Mill Creek.

"We received a very clear signal that they didn't want logging in the canyon. The Big Sur Land Trust bought the property to hold until the park district could raise the funds," said Leavy.

"I understand and recognize the concerns of over use in the canyon. The elected directors of the park district are

Supes adopt a fee resolution to fund improvements on CV Road

By SUSAN BECK

THE MONTEREY County Board of Supervisors voted unanimously Aug. 25 to adopt a fee resolution that will satisfy the requirements of the Carmel Valley Master Plan.

Board Chair Karin Strasser Kauffman said that the decision was short-term and targets safety rather the four-laning Carmel Valley Road.

She said that the fundamental point was made at a previous meeting to develop a long-term traffic management plan including traffic improvements, cost, and alternatives for financing because the fees won't cover all of the improvements.

"The decision is a definite assurance that something less than four-laning will be done to improve Carmel Valley Road. It's minimal improvements for keeping the road safe. We don't want the road to be growth inducing in terms of future development in Carmel Valley."

After three hours of explanation by staff about the proposed fee schedule and public testimony, supervisor Barbara Shipnuck recommended to adopt a tiered fee program that would make safety improvements along Carmel Valley Road with fees in expanded areas such as Cachagua to be reduced by 50 percent.

The fee schedule adopted requires a $5,100 fee for a new single-family residence, caretaker unit, second unit or apartment. A senior-unit cost $2,500. All are on existing lots of record.

New lots will be $13,800 for a house and $6,900 for a senior unit. Hotel and motel units will each pay $15,000, with commercial uses at $3,600. Fees will be exempted for low and moderate income units.

The total estimated cost for providing safety improvements is $13.52 million. The improvements include shoulder widening, left-turn channelization, two-way left-turn lanes, bicycle lanes and pedestrian overcrossings.

Shipnuck's recommendation also included honoring existing agreements, and having county staff return to the board within or before nine months with a financial program assuring a continuum of funds to improve Carmel Valley Road.

Despite a call by many Carmel Valley residents to review the Carmel Valley Master Plan for amendments Shipnuck said, "My philosophy is that the Carmel Valley Master Plan is a covenant with the community. It took six years to get the current plan, and I think we should stay with it."

She said the plan has a policy allowing for the collections of permit fees and that they should have been collected since 1986. "That will teach us a lesson. We would have had the funds."

Strasser Kauffman said, "The master plan is working. I've heard no one challenge the basic policies of the plan."

local residents too and are also concerned. We heard what they were saying. I don't see any expansion in the foreseeable future. It's just not in the cards."

Even among those residents who are not opposed to the park's plans, there is some measure of ambivalence about the Mill Creek Preserve as expressed by Dick Humphries.

"I'm pleased to have the land purchased to prevent over development of the area. It will be fun to walk around the trail once in a while, but I have mixed feelings," said Humphries.

He said that the cost-benefit ratio doesn't seem reasonable. "With all the burdens of public budgets, and social problems, not the least of which is the shortage of funds for public education, it seems that postponing the park would not be unreasonable to consider."

Humphries is doubtful that the estimated $85- to $100,000 cost for development is realistic. "I wouldn't be surprised if it didn't cost double that."

He is also dubious about the $20,000 per year estimate for operating costs, considering the plan is to have a full-time ranger on duty.

Humphries said that he has reservations with the park district having the public funds to facilitate the Mill Creek project while education programs are being severely cut back. "I think we could have a better use of the funds until the economy and tax collections improve."

Town Hall meeting in Carmel Valley set

A TOWN Hall meeting will be held at Tularcitos School at 35 Ford Road in Carmel Valley Thursday, Sept. 3, at 7:30 p.m.

Karin Strasser Kauffman, Monterey County Board of Supervisors' chair, plans to discuss the design features and the proposed schedule for replacing the Esquiline Road Bridge at the Carmel River.

The project consists of replacing the existing narrow two-lane bridge, popularly known as "Rosie's Bridge," with a new concrete box girder bridge. The new two-lane bridge will have a concrete riding surface that is not slippery, be able to carry legal loads, and have a wood plank pedestrian walkway separated from vehicular traffic.

Carmel Valley Ranchers' Days

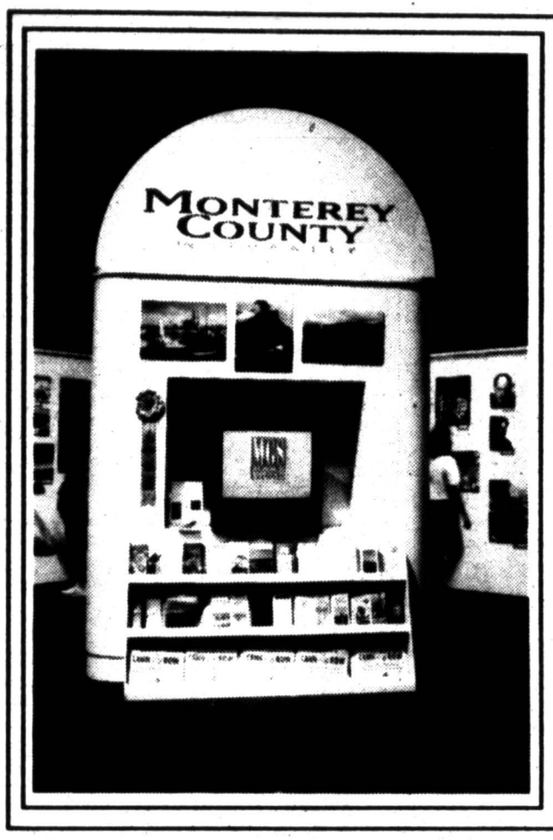
RANCHERS' DAYS will be held at the Carmel Valley Trail & Saddle Club on east Garzas Road in Carmel Valley Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 29-30 starting at 8 p.m.

Team roping, stockhorse, team penning, and calf branding events will be done in the style of the valley's early settlers.

There will be a pancake breakfast and barbecue with live county music on Saturday evening.

All proceeds from Ranchers' Days are given to local non-profit organizations.

Admission is free. For more information call 624-2425.



Tourism exhibit wins bronze at state fair

MONTEREY COUNTY'S Tourism Project exhibit won third place in the "Counties Exhibits" category at the California State Fair in Sacramento.

The exhibit, "Monterey County Naturally," was designed and coordinated by Carmel Valley resident Mark Gordon who is the director of the project.

"I feel really great about winning. It's the icing on the cake. This is the first competition, and the $3,000 award will pay for the trip to the Los Angeles County Fair," said Gordon.

The exhibit focuses on Monterey County's landscape, architecture, history and writers through a selection of mural-sized photos and a recurring three-minute video.

She said that because of the plan's traffic mechanism the community bought assurance that if the build-out numbers became intolerable the county would take a look and either cut back the numbers or make improvements to Carmel Valley Road to accommodate the increase.

About the possibility of amending the valley's master plan rather than work with what is already in place, Strasser Kauffman said, "Amending the master plan is up to the people, especially the people in Carmel Valley. It may or may not happen. It's up to them to make a convincing case. It's their right to proceed."

This is the first test of the Carmel Valley Master Plan, she added. "We knew it wasn't going to be easy."

Doris Day's Best Friends

Lovely lattice

SOME RECENT calls to our pet foundation line about dogs escaping from their yards by jumping over fences reminded me that it's time to mention lattice again. I happen to love the look of lattice and have used it in many areas on my property. Not only is it very attractive, it can be useful in keeping your doggy in his yard. You can use lattice on top of an existing fence or wall and extend the height by a couple of feet! If you have basic carpentry skills this project won't be difficult. Otherwise, a handyman will make short work of it. I think lattice is the most practical and inexpensive way to make your yard safe for your doggy, so try it — I guarantee you'll love the results!

Bath time

Summertime means skin problems, allergies and fleas and there's no better way to soothe your pet's irritated skin than with a refreshing bath. If you have a personal shower attachment in your tub or stall, it's the perfect way to bathe your doggy. If not, you can run your garden hose from your kitchen sink to get warm water. Remember, your dog's body temperature is higher than your own so keep the water tepid, not too warm.

A medicated shampoo formulated for dogs will gently clean and soothe irritated skin but in any case, don't use human shampoos or soaps. A no-tears baby shampoo is good to use on the head and face, or you can put a drop of mineral oil in each eye to protect from soap irritation. Don't spray water directly in the face or ears. Your dog will naturally drop his head as you rinse and the water will run right off.

In a recent column I suggested trying Avon Skin-So-Soft as a flea repellent. My collaborator has since used it on her dogs and cats and has found it does help keep the fleas at bay. It left a bit of an oily residue on her poodle's coat, but the fleas didn't return for a week. Her cats looked like they'd stuck their paws in a light socket! The oil made their fur spiky but again, it did help the flea problem considerably. In case you didn't see my column, the mixture is 1-1/2 ounces of Skin-So-Soft to a gallon of warm water.

Dear Doris Day Pet Foundation:

On May 26th, me and my family got a dog from your foundation. Her name is Lucy. And she is the best dog ever. I love her a lot. She sleeps with me at night and she loves to go on walks. When I come home from school she is so happy and she licks my face and jumps all around. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Allison Gordon

Cows n' the hood

CARS ARE transportation.

Except in late August, on the Monterey Peninsula. Then anyone even half aware of the Grand Automotive Weekend, and it's hard to not to be, when there's a red Ferrari on every street corner, takes a second look at their car. And probably washes it, wishing those little dings and scratches weren't quite so obvious.

We all take our cars for granted and cuss them when they won't start, but let the Grand Automotive Weekend be your cue to stop to think about all the ways cars have influenced you and played a part in the memorable moments of your life. This time of year, as hordes of people from all over the world descend on our little kingdom to romance the auto, cars we have known and loved come to mind.

Every fall my father would take my mother, sister and I to the car dealerships to see the new models. We would open doors, sit behind the wheel, and sniff the upholstery. Invariably my father would trade in last year's model for a new version with more chrome.

My sister and I won't forget the shiny black Buick and the narrow mountain road that dropped us smack in the middle of a cattle drive and how the cows all put their noses in the holes on the hood. Or the grey Caddie that melted in the explosion in front of Pennys or the candy apple red Pontiac convertible my mother loved to drive through town. Or my cute little red Mustang my younger sister inherited on her wedding day because her husband-to-be's VW conked out.

We all have our favorite car stories. These expensive hunks of metal play a big part in our lives. Even if you didn't attend one single event during the Grand Automotive Weekend, you have a car story. Even if you drive a old beater held together with bungee cords and coat hangers.

Now, that's a story.

CONCOURS CAPERS

Aloof celebrities could take a lesson from Jay Leno, who graciously signed autographs, posed for snapshots and was all around congenial to the many fans who approached him over the weekend. He pumped some diversion into the Pebble Beach Concours when he drove his 1930 Duesenberg J LeBaron Dual Cowl Phaeton up the ramp to accept his first-place class award and called out, "Fix, it's a fix," to which announcer Paul Woudenberg retorted, "The fix is on you." Leno went on to win the Gwenn Graham Most Elegant Open Car Award.

A celebrity who slipped in and out of the Concours with nary a ripple was Alex Cord, whose credits include nearly 30 feature films, over 400 television roles and 10 years in the legitimate theater. So, why didn't anyone recognize him? He's looking for property to buy in of all places, Cachagua. Any sellers out there?

The Rick Cole Auction at the Doubletree attracted a crowd that prompted one old-timer to comment he hadn't seen as much action on Alvarado St. since the Monterey Theater was in business and they used to show what they called "mom and pop" (that's soft porn to you) movies. Keeping the tradition alive, the State Theater is currently featuring "Buffy the Vampire Slayer She Knows a Sucker When She Sees One."

One of the booths outside the Rick Cole Auction tent made local animal lovers blanch. A cutsey, cozy bedroom, populated by a pair of deer nibbling on the ruffled bedspread, a foursome of pot bellied pigs in a baby crib, puppies called Dogues de Bordeaux cuddled up on the bed and a blonde in black leather, attracted quite a bit of attention. Best Pets is an exotic pet company out of Scottsdale, Arizona whose ads say, "If it doesn't belong in your house or yard, we won't offer it."

ANNUAL BARGAIN HUNT RETURNS

St. John's Chapel will present its Annual Bargain Hunt from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 3.

The sale will feature bargains for the whole family, including books, antiques, collectibles, jewelry, household items and more.

Proceeds are donated to local charities. St. John's is at Mark Thomas Drive and Josselyn Canyon Road, Monterey. For more information, call 375-4463.

FAMILY RESOURCE CENTER CUTS STAFF

Due to the state budget impasse, the Family Resource Center has had to lay off four child care workers, according to Chief Financial Officer Kent Nelson.

State licensing requirements limit the number of children per worker, meaning that a reduced workforce automatically and by law reduces service.

"Demand for our services has grown dramatically in the past year. It was a heartbreaking decision to lay off staff, but we have no alternative," notes Bill Falzett, executive director.

For further information, call 394-4622.

WHEELCHAIR TAXI AVAILABLE

Persons in wheelchairs may now call (800) 750-0644 for taxicab service with a wheelchair-accessible minivan.

Service hours are 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily and the cost is $1.75 per mile. It is a service of the Monterey County Rides Program. Passengers may send in their taxicab receipts to the County RIDES program and receive a reimbursement of up to 50 percent of the cost of each taxicab ride, up to a maximum of $45 per month.

For further information, call DeEtta Nicely at 647-7747 or 755-4849.

DRIFTWOOD FORMS AUXILIARY

A new volunteer auxiliary is now forming at Driftwood Convalescent Hospital in Monterey. volunteers are needed to help in many ways, including fund raising, entertainment, attending special outings, sharing a cup of coffee or just holding a hand and listening. Even as little as an hour a month can brighten someone's life.

The first meeting is set 2 p.m. Sept. 9 at 1575 Skyline Drive, Monterey. Thereafter, meetings will be held on the second Wednesday of each month at 2 p.m. For more information, call Driftwood Convalescent Hospital at 373-2731.

GARDEN PARTY RETURNS TO LA PLAYA

La Playa Hotel and Cottages-by-the-Sea is gearing up for its second annual Garden Party, slated 1:30 to 6:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 13. The party will benefit Carmel's Festival of Firsts, an original playwrighting competition.

The party will include a fashion show, Taelen Thomas performing "A Night with Jack London," and a garden lecture series featuring several experts.

Gourmet food and wines will be served. Tickets are $17 per person, in advance, and $20 per person at the door. Fifty percent of the ticket price is tax deductible, and reservations are advised. For information, call 624-6476.

COUNTY BOARD SEEKS APPLICANTS

Applicants are being sought for a vacancy on the County Advisory Board on Alcohol-Related Problems by Fourth District Supervisor Sam Karas.

The committee was formed to oversee the alcohol program planning process and to advise on goals and policies.

Interested applicants residing in the Fourth District are encouraged to send a letter stating their desire to serve, including their home address and daytime telephone number, to the office of Supervisor Sam Karas, 1200 Aguajito Road, Suite 006, Monterey, 93940.

BRIDGE CLUB ROUNDUP

At Carmel Bridge Club's weekly game on Aug. 5, Jill Leach and Betty Jackson achieved the highest score with their 113 on an 84 average. The two women played East-West and in that position second place was won by Dick Vreeland and Frank Ivie; third place by Phyllis Steven and Toni Mahon; fourth place by Orlando Seversen and Richard Doe.

North-South first place was won by Beth Oliver and Phyllis Sokol; second place by Roger Greenwald and Janet Davenport; third place by Shirley Temple and Dorothy Craig; fourth place by Bob Hansen and Lois Ebert.

Californians take 1992 National Spearfishing title

A THREE-MAN team from Fremont, California took home top honors Sept. 14 in the 42nd annual free diving nationals held in the waters of Carmel Bay.

Mike McGuire of the winning team had the highest overall total in the meet, spearing 20 fish weighing in at 113.7 pounds.His brother Glen finished a close second with 90.4 pounds.

The largest fish was a 19.7 pound ling cod landed by John Ernst of the 2nd place Hawaiian team. Ernst finished third overall.

"The water gods were with us," said Larry Ankuda, director of catch records for the Central California Council of Dive Clubs.

The divers, using ocean kayaks, hunted an area approximately one mile square, from the Carmel Rivermouth north to Pescadero Point in Pebble Beach. By keeping the competition area relatively small, judges and doctors aboard boats in the area can more easily monitor the divers, according to organizers.

For safety reasons, it makes sense.

Shark attack victims among competitors

Among the competitors was Fremont resident Frank Gallo, who was attacked by a great white shark in 1986 while diving off Monastery Beach near Point Lobos.

According to organizer Conrad Lauer, many competitors staked out the area months in advance to prepare for the six-hour event.

Because many of the fish species sought after are territorial in nature, divers can return to the same caves scouted out months ago and find the same big ling cod or cabezon residing there. Lauer said when scouting it's tempting to shoot trophy fish, but you have to be patient and hope that other divers or fishermen don't find the fish before you return.

"There are different techniques and attitudes," Lauer said, citing differences in strategy between competitors. "Some go after their big fish first, then finish up with school fish," he said.

MIKE MCGUIRE of Fremont with one of several large lings speared during competition.

Free diving is a particularly demanding form of this sport because underwater breathing apparatus (SCUBA) isn't allowed, according to organizers. The divers must spot their quarry, take a deep breath, and submerge, hoping to get a good shot. Even with a clean shot, they still must wrestle their catch to the surface as it goes through its final death throes.

Don Barthman took home the championship title in 1980, the last time the U.S. National Spearfishing Championships came to Carmel. Barthman was bitten by a large shark a year later while diving off the Lone Cypress in Pebble Beach.

After the Department of Fish and Game recorded data to compare this year's results with the catch in 1980, the fish were donated to a local charity.

COCA-COLA ASSISTS AQUARIUM

The Coca-Cola Company has become a major sponsor of education programs offered by the Monterey Bay Aquarium.

The commitment by the company will support free self-guided tours and classroom programs at the aquarium for more than 70,000 California school children who visit each year. The sponsorship will also be used to develop teaching materials about marine life and ocean conservation that the aquarium provides to students and teachers.

"Our primary mission is to foster public interest in protecting Monterey Bay and the world's oceans through innovative exhibit and education programs," said Julie Packard, executive director of the aquarium. "We're delighted to have the Coca-Cola Company as a partner in these important efforts."

Hella Langer celebrates 92nd

HELLA LANGER took obvious relish in her 92nd birthday. As usual she helped customers who strolled into Langer's Antiques, on Dolores near Ocean Avenue. But also, Mayor Ken White, other city officials and a score of friends and residents threw her a brief birthday party.

White read a formal mayor's proclamation, but personalized it into "a love letter" to the Langer. He was paying tribute to a woman who has operated the same storefront for 35 and a half years.

Langer, who is German, specializes in old European china and glass, and boasts of having made "33 consecutive trips" to Europe. "If I ordered from a catelog, I would have the same thing everyone else does," she declared.

Cypress Club swimmers

COMPETING FOR Cypress Swim Club at the California Golden State Games in Concord this summer were (left to right) Kimber Rudo of Corral de Tierra, Julie Petho of Carmel and Kirsten Nordgren of Pebble Beach.

In the 11-12 Solo, Nordgren, a student at All Saints School, captured the gold medal with a score of 74.72 points. In the 13-14 solo, Rudo, a student at Robert Louis Stevenson School, placed fourth with a score of 77.08 points, while Petho, a student at York School, earned the gold in the 15-16 solo with a score of 76.44 points.

In the 13-14 duet competition, Nordgren "swam up" to join Rudo, and together they captured the bronze medals with a score of 76.96 points.

B'day bash

MAYOR KEN White wanted to be one of the first to buy a ticket to the "Carmel Celebrates Community" from the Carmel Business Association's Toni Jepson.

The event, a birthday bash for Carmel-by-the-Sea, is intended to become a new tradition. White thought that with last year's 75th birthday turning into such a success, an annual community celebration was in order.

The celebration will take place on the grounds of Sunset Center, from noon to 4 p.m., Sunday, Oct 25. Lunch and entertainment — as well as lots of socializing — are part of the event. The tickets are $8. They are available at city hall and the CBA office.

Peninsula Palate

By Chef Wendy Brodie

An evening to remember

A GASTRONOMIC experience happened right in our own backyard on Wednesday, Aug. 12. Overlooking the majestic Pacific coast (even with the moody, romantic fog) at the Highlands Inn with GM David Fink, who presented the Domaine de la Romanée-Conti Dinner, was fabulous. Aubert de Villaine's, proprietor, paired special wines with dishes created for these vintages by the famed chef Jean-Louis Palladin of restaurant, Jean-Louis at Watergate in Washington D.C., and Highlands Inn's own Brian Whitmer and Andrea Borchers (the new pastry chef).

My interest in attending this dinner was to meet a food hero, Jean-Louis, after having discovered his coffee table cookbook, Jean-Louis...Cooking With The Seasons, a couple years ago. A brief history: He began his career as an apprentice in his native Gascony when he was 12, attended the hotel school in Toulouse, became saucier at Monte Carlo's Hotel de Paris and then went to Le Plaza Athenée in Paris. In 1968 at 22 he opened his first restaurant, La Table des Cordeliers, winning two Michelin stars by the age of 28. He then came to the US in 1979 to open his famous restaurant at Watergate. If you see his book, you will see his artistry.

Different menu

The menu was very different in format, a first of it kind for me. The hors d'oeuvres, Jean-Louis' seafood appetizers were elegantly and traditionally passed on silver, showing off his unusual presentations: Seaweed Salad macerated in Sesame, wrapped around Black Seaweed; Smoked Eel from Maine on grilled Bread with Aioli; Quail Eggs on Brioche with Ossetra Caviar (the menu should have said quail eggs in Brioche because these were done like the breakfast dish eggs in a nest, with a little of the bread hollowed out and the raw egg broken and placed in the hole and then cooked (excellent); Gravlax of Tuna with Tapenade; Small Pizza with Fennel; Sea Urchins, and Tempura of Squid all served with a 1982 Heidsieck Monopole Diamant Bleu-Magnum (champagne).

The dinner started off with Aubert giving a brief history of the family burgundy business in France which is no short story. However, I will pull a little info out of Alex Lichine's New Encyclopedia of Wines & Spirits:

"The vineyard of the Romanée-Conti, one of the most famous in the world ... Contrary to usual Burgundian practice, all wine from the RC is estate-bottled and every bottle carries on label and cork the seal of the Société Civile de La Romanée-Conti, owner of this vineyard and the renowned LaTache, as well as of parts of others. The property has been in the same family since 1869, when it was bought by Monsieur Duvaut-Blochet, and that was only the ninth time it had changed hands since the thirteenth century. The vineyard has been passed down within the family and is owned today by Monsieur de Villaine, a bank manager in Moulins and by Madame Bise-Leroy.

Among previous owners have been the government of France, which seized the vineyard during the French Revolution; and the Prince de Conti, from whom it was seized. The Prince had acquired it in 1760, in spite of the protests of Madame de Pompadour, who wanted it for herself....

At their best, the wines of the Romanée-Conti have perfect, rich balance combined with extraordinary breed and finesse, and local experts maintain they are the most "virile" of the wine of Vosne - meaning, perhaps, that there is an iron hand beneath the velvet glove."

Tradition challenged

With that kind of introduction, the first wine was poured, a 1987 Domaine Romanée-Conti Montrachet that was served with Brian's Atlantic Black Sea Bass on a bed of local fennel and pancetta (ragout style), then came a 1955 Domaine Romanée-Conti Echezeaux served with Jean-Louis' Fillet of Halibut roasted with sage and rosemary on a bed of raito (a sauce/condiment which traditionally is made with olive oil and red wine, with tomatoes, onions, crushed walnuts, and garlic, flavored with bay leaf, thyme, parsley, rosemary, fennel, a clove and sometimes garnished with capers and black olives; the mixture is simmered for a long time until very thick, and then strained.) I thought it unusual to have two fish courses. Then came the two main courses; first Brian's breast of duckling with a a sauce with sun-dried cherries, three slices of duck propelled around a dollop of mashed potatoes with three spoonfuls of peas between the duck. It was served with a 1989 Romanée-St. Vivant and then Jean-Louis' stuffed gigot (leg) of suckling pig with sauté and essence of cepes, certainly living up to his reputation, consumed with a 1982 Richebourg, then finally tropical desserts by Andrea; a coconut flan, a tamarillo sorbet presented in the fruit, a hazelnut, chocolate and passionfruit torte , and three mango crepes filled with strawberry and lime mousse, quite a composition offered with Illy Caffè.

Tradition was challenged at this meal, one of the ways life is made interesting and thought-provoking. Are you hungry yet?

Now you know what Millie knows...

AFTER READING Millie's Book, about a First Dog spaniel who tells all about George and Barbara Bush, it reaches out to dog-lovers everywhere... and Carmel residents love their dogs deeply, and who like Millie would give their all for their owners. Barbara tells of how one night George went out "searching for a stuffed animal outdoors in the dark" so his grand-daughter could fall asleep (George's Venus in Cancer). Anyone who has doubts about George only has to look at the photos on pages 46 and 47 of the book... and what George is like "in the morning" on page 104. About the only drawback Millie has found with George is wearing her personalized seat belt the two times he dragged her out on his boat. Apparently, George drives erratically, as afterwards he said to her "Never again, Millie."

The world changes. People change. However, George and Barbara Bush are solid, constant and have the most important and compatible aspects necessary for a solid union in a marriage and nothing comes to pass that is not shown in the charts. Both Barbara and George are Geminis (born four days apart, within a year of each other). There's natural warmth, and similar views on life. They bring out the best in each other. Barbara leads the relationship, however, with Her Sun trine George's Moon do we ever see her poking her nose publicly into George's business? No! He relies on her for advice, trusts her wisdom, as she is the light in which he reflects... there are MANY unseen blessings in his family life. Her Sun also trines his Saturn which helps him FOCUS. She makes a great wife because she can function within the boundaries he sets down, there are sound guidelines and limitations that each respects in the relationship. It is not a power struggle.

Barbara's Venus trines George's Mars and Saturn... there's natural compatibility. His aggressiveness complements her need for Gemini Venus activity. She cooperates and reinforces his ego in a sincere way. Both can be themselves while sharing a life, and yes, the sexual attraction "between them" is strong. She admires his strength and protective qualities... he promised her a rose garden and delivered. He's her fortress, her hero and all that goes with the strength of a healthy relationship.. and what a woman wants in a man and vice-versa. Their love is focused and has both meaning and purpose–lots of stability and REAL enduring love.

Shelters and fortifies

Barbara is a strong woman married to a strong man. George's Mercury in Taurus trines Barbara's Jupiter in Capricorn which gives many levels of harmony and understanding. She feeds him ideas that he can assimilate intellectually. There is MUCH spiritual growth in the relationship. His Venus trines her Saturn... he's learned his own strengths through her nourishment which she gives without strings. How she shelters and fortifies him... it's a delightful and refreshing relationship indeed. They are truly role models for the rest of us because they have the kind of marriage where each "outgrew" childhood patterns and that's 90% of a healthy, enduring relationship.

Unlike their opponents, Bill and Hillary Clinton... Hillary has nine masculine signs, is a Scorpio whose Sun squares Bill's Mercury-Saturn and Pluto in Leo... he's her puppet and she pulls his strings in his 2nd house of money. Who do you think arranged the monies for his campaign? She's not exactly Tinker Bell with her Venus in 16-degrees of Scorpio opposing Bill's Moon, square his Pluto and Sun...YUCK! He's her hostage, and if it wasn't for the campaign both may be in "divorce court" right now, this year and... no one in this Cancer country would vote for a man who doesn't have a first lady to bring with him to the White House. Paired couples in America are about as common as Noah's Ark.

Affair with his wife

There's been a rumor surfacing that George Bush had a thing with a female aid in 1984, somewhere in a cottage in Switzerland. However, during that time George had T. Saturn trine his Venus... the only one he was having an affair with was his wife. And Switzerland is a Virgo country and squares his Gemini signs. So much for media hype. Perhaps Bill Clinton is jealous of the President's relationship with his wife. Because long after Cosmo covers have passed, Barbara beats them all; she's not only passionate but one smart lady! Teach us Barbara... how do you do it?

So... the marketing reality is that George and Barbara are indeed the "ideal" couple. His Jupiter trines her Neptune... together they can expand their dreams, hopes and wishes. Their spiritual principles and philosophies makes their partnership easy. They "show us" what a successful relationship is all about. She never lets him know that she is "his shadow" because she loves him. Theirs is an intensely passionate relationship, and as time goes by, the intensity deepens as their love is part and parcel of a "mystical bond" that goes beyond the very core of love itself.

Millie's quote in her book sums it up: "I Know the Bushes love me. They told me so. But they love people more, all people."

Next week, back to the Kondratieff Wave business cycles... Questions, comments, want a consultation? Call 624-2881 or write: P.O. Box 223825, Carmel, California 93922.

Positive Thoughts

Herman & Miriam Fickewirth

Procrastination is my sin, much to my sorrow. But I am learning to deal with it – tomorrow.

"What do we live for if it is not not to make life less difficult for each other?"

"No man can really be big who does not read widely outside his own field."

In baseball and in life, it's the number of times you reach home safely that counts!

"All my life I have been a liar. No, that's really not true."

Father Farrell's Wisdom

Stevenson's prayer

I DISCOVERED an early edition of Stevenson's essays during my recent houseclean. The book was published two years after his death in 1896. It contained a violent and passionate defense of Father Damien, who gave his life in the service to the lepers of Molokai. It is a classic diatribe against Damien's detractor, the Rev. Dr. Hyde. Stevenson and his family settled at Vailima, in Samoa. As a patriarch, he gathered his family and his Samoan servants for evening prayers. Stevenson became angry with a fellow Scot, an alcoholic who visited him at Vailima. He verbally castigated him and then ordered him from his home.

That evening he recited this contrite prayer: "Oh Lord, enlighten us to see the beam that is in our own eye, and blind us to the mote that is in our brothers. Let us feel our offenses with our hands, make them great and bright before us, like the sun, make us eat them and drink them for our diet. Blind us to the offenses of our neighbor, cleanse them from our memories and take them out of our mouths forever. Help us with the grace of courage; touch us with fire from the altar that we may be up and doing, to rebuild our city; in the name and by the method of Him in whose name and prayer we now conclude." Amen.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

The New York State Bar Association chose Ree Adler of Buffalo as its outstanding young lawyer of 1992. She is 63. She met the association's standard as "a young lawyer" because she has been one for less than 10 years. It wasn't high fees that won the award. She has earned a total of $8 , $1 per year as a legal aid lawyer. Wife of a surgeon and mother of five children, Mrs. Adler enrolled in law school at age 56 so she could more effectively help individuals and advance community programs.

In Doylestown, Pennsylvania, a free program called Rent-a-Senior matches people 55 or over with employers seeking mature help for jobs as varied as computer operator, painter and driver. In 10 years, the program has placed more than 800 men and women in satisfying jobs that pay more than minimum wage. Most are part-time, but some are new, fulltime careers. A 63-year-old industrial manager, idle for a year, was hired as a manufacturers-representative sales engineer, "a completely new field to me...stimulating, exciting."

Our fair county: the people, fun, music, bounty

THE RICHNESS and fun of our annual Monterey County Fair continues at — as almost anyone might guess — the Monterey Fairgrounds.

This celebration of bounty runs through Sunday evening (8/30) and includes name entertainers as well as daily performances and the ever-interesting exhibits.

Daily schedules and many answers may be obtained at the helpful Information Booth between the Senior Home Arts Building (Seaside Room) and the Junior Building (King City Room).

Displays? Agriculture/Horticulture; Visual Arts (three dimensions, two dimensions, photography); Floriculture (arrangements, cut flowers, potted, orchids, gardens); Senior Home Arts (baked goods, preserves, wines, clothing, textiles).

In the Junior Building you'll find exhibits put together by 4H, Future Farmers, industrial education students, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts. The Livestock Department is open each day.

Local organizations turn out too: Catholic Daughters Cake Sale, Quilter's Guild, Jazzercise, Pacific Grove Blind Center Sculpture Show, Sea Scribes (calligraphy), on and on. Simply wander about without preconceptions or time-frames and wonders will emerge.

The schedule through Friday is 11 a.m. till 11 p.m. (grounds) and 11 a.m. till 10 p.m. (buildings). For Saturday and Sunday it's 10 a.m. till11 p.m. (grounds) and 10 a.m. till 10 p.m. (buildings).

Admission: $6 adults, $5 seniors (62 and older) and military (ID required), $2 children 6-12, no charge for children 5 and under. With a bus voucher you'll get a $1 discount.

Extended schedules

Monterey-Salinas Transport is providing extended bus service to and from the fair in conjunction with the big event's organizers. A free park-and-ride shuttle is available from Monterey Peninsula College and downtown Monterey. There also are free rides home on MST for all fair-goers.

During the fair, free parking is available at MPC. From there, all buses heading toward the fairgrounds are free. From the Transit Plaza in downtown Monterey, there is a special free shuttle going to the fairgrounds.

Persons leaving the fair can board the bus and ride free anywhere within MST's service area. Frequent free service is provided in both directions between MPC bus stops and the fair till 11:15 each night.

Free service will run every 30 minutes between the Transit Plaza and fairgrounds — from 4 p.m. till 11:15 p.m. on weekdays, noon till 11:15 p.m. Saturday, 11 a.m. till 11:15 p.m. Sunday.

For complete schedule and rate information, call MST at 899-2555.

And when you're there

Once people have arrived at the fairgrounds, daily entertainment may be seen and heard:

Terry Godfrey plays host of the children's area. His magic tricks and comedy acts appeal to folks of all ages. He likes audiences to take part.

Hurricane Sam is a high-energy piano player. Blues, jazz, country. He works the Turf Club Patio nightly.

Ken Karter, GinJette and Friends provide puppetry. The Trinidad Steel Drum Band plays on the KAZU Food Plaza Stage.

Magical Moments (Rick and Kim Thomas) perform such illusions as The Pretzel Lady and The Invisible Man. Fair mascot Goldie the Scarecrow roves free, inviting all comers to play.

Bigger names

Naturally, the entertainment schdule brings forth some bigger names. Examples:

Thursday evening (8/27) — Appearing separately...singers Crystal Gayle and Gary Morris. He's out of the country tradition while she has had hits in nearly all genres.

Friday evening (8/28) — Poco. The band that inspired such others as The Eagles and Fleetwood Mac. Hits from 1969 till Now....

Saturday evening (8/29) — Suzy Boggus. A country singer of great power and promise.

Sunday evening (8/30) — B.J. Thomas. Five Grammys, 11 gold records, two platinum discs. Pop, easy listening, country, gospel.

Locations vary. Again, check with the Information Booth.

Safety first

Regarding the fun rides and games/food booths, those who head up B&B Amusement say their topmost goal is "to provide a safe environment in the carnival and midway area."

In fact, co-owner Buddy Merten claims that going on the rides set up at Monterey County Fair is "safer than a Sunday automobile drive."

He adds: "Before a ride can operate, it must pass a state inspection. We hold safety seminars for ride operators and

Children's Experimental Theater benefit due Sunday

SUNDAY IS when the public can express appreciation for all that Children's Experimental Theater of Carmel has accomplished over the past 32 years.

From 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. that date (8/30), there will be a CET fundraiser at Clint Eastwood's Mission Ranch.

Should some recent arrival ask you, CET has taught and inspired many amongst today's Monterey Peninsula community theater leadership.

Eastwood donated the site for this occasion. "Some of Carmel's finest restaurants," organizers promise, "will be contributing food and drink. A silent auction of classy items will be held."

Tickets cost $25 apiece. Call 624-1531.

FINE LOCAL actress Rosamond Goodrich prepares for her new show, which will be staged at Cherry Foundation in Carmel. Directed by Nick Zanides, she plays Shirley Valentine. The bored British housewife transforms after a feminist friend offers a holiday in Greece. See today's theater roundup for additional details. (Scott Allen photos)

Avon's favorite son

GroveMont will kick off the 1992 Carmel Shake-speare Festival next week. (And, yes, that's how the company spells the Bard of Avon's last name.) Place: Forest Theater.

First shot out of the figurative cannon will be an open dress rehearsal for Othello on Wednesday evening, Sept. 2. Dress warmly and dial 649-0340 if you wish details.

A preview of the same drama will be staged the next evening. The official Opening Night is Friday, Sept. 4, at 8 p.m.

Othello (through Oct. 11) will run in repertory with Macbeth (Sept. 11 opening, Oct. 9 closure). All play dates have been offered in this space previously and will be published again next week. Advance tickets: 649-6852; credit card treatment: 655-3200.

In addition to the main shows, Shakespeare Authorship West will present "free lectures, readings and debates on the authorship controversy." These will occur in late September and early October with specific times TBA.

The local buzz today is that both productions enjoy the benefits of powerful casts.

Tragic clown

Monterey Opera says rehearsals for its Pagliacci are 7-10 Monday evenings at Secommbe Hall of All Saints Church in Carmel.

Official word: "Anyone interested in joining the chorus is welcome. Especially men."

Available are male villager roles (two). Ben Goldman serves as stage director while Richard Lessing conducts the orchestra.

Performances at Steinbeck Forum have been scheduled Nov. 14-15. Information: 649-6772.

Nick and Roz

Quite the team. Nick Zanides directs longtime local stage star Rosamond Goodrich in Shirley Valentine. Willy Russell's "mondrama" centers on "a middle-aged English housewife longing to get out" of terminal boredom.

Department will open this one with an 8 p.m. preview on Thursday, Sept. 3. Then the run will continue through Sept. 27 at Carmel's Cherry Foundation. (Thursday-Saturday at 8 p.m. and 7 p.m. Sundays.)

Shirley encounters an entirely different life after a feminist friend offers her a holiday in Greece. Tickets ($9) now may be ordered via Monterey County Theater Alliance (655-3200).

In Salinas

Western Stage at Hartnell College has opened Stage Door — the 1930s comedy by Edna Ferber and George S. Kaufman. Through Sept. 20 in the Performing Arts Center's Studio Theater.

The premise is simple but rich with possibilities: a club boarding house for young women of the stage in New York's West 50s. Joys, romances, frustrations, disappointments.

Guest artists have contributed to the production, including Director Barbara Bosch from UC/Santa Barbara and Costume Designer Dianne Holly of Old Globe Theater in San Diego.

Reserve seat tickets cost $12 and $10 with discounts for seniors, students and military. Call 755-6816 or 375-2111.

Meanwhile, the world premiere run of John Steinbeck's East of Eden closes this coming weekend (8/30). Alan Cook adapted the big novel into a three-part theatrical cycle.

Our critic Anne Papineau wrote: "The mosaic is fascinating...Fortunes are made and lost, alliances forged, families divided, with international events interpreted on a Salinas Valley level...The patterns that emerge are vivid and entrancing...."

Virgins and Vixens — "an original revue of Shakespeare's women by resident dramaturg Joyce Lower" — will open Oct. 16 and close Nov. 14.

Auditions for The Wizard of Oz with music and lyrics from the screen version. These will be held Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 5-6. Call 755-6990.

"Guest artist contracts and student stipends available."

Homecrafter event slates evaluation

AN IMPORTANT date: Wednesday, Sept. 2, is the time for artists and craftspersons to bring their work to Sunset Center for selection as part of the 22nd annual Homecrafter's Marketplace.

The review committee will be in the Bingham Room from 9 a.m. till 3 p.m. Appointments are not necessary, says Coordinator Joan Vandervort.

Required — a good sampling of work, price list, picture or diagram of the setup. The show will be held from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 21.

Usually, more than 300 local craftspersons display items in the Sunset Center parking lot. Call 659-5099 if you ned more data.

Another matter for the children's enjoyment — the petting zoo. Open daily until 6 p.m., this has goats, sheep, rabbits, guinea pigs, peacocks, chickens, pigs and a pony.

These Petting Zoo animals make their home at the fairgrounds year-round. They're part of the School Farm project.

The farm aims to educate youngsters about agriculture. Anyone wishing to make donations for feed, equipment and animals — well, simply call manager Perry Slocum at 372-5863.

The department superintendents worked hard so that their various elements would be ready for all those visitors.

COOKING TIPS FROM THE TOP

Our own personal Cuisinartist

■ The Covey's Master Chef Robert Williamson — he orchestrates our juicers, poachers, toasters, blenders, mixers, roasters, and dessert-makers. He's also caterer to some of the most privileged palates we know. Here he generously shares one of his secrets that makes The Covey — simply the best:

In these days of low fat cooking it is useful to have on hand some of the most intensely flavored oils. A splash of sesame, mustard or extra virgin olive oil will add zip to an otherwise plain dish without going overboard on the fat.

Here's another tip: Do you have a taste for the good life? So do we. Join us at The Covey restaurant just 3.4 miles from Highway 1 on Carmel Valley Road • Cocktails from 5 pm - dinner every evening from 6:30 pm • Jackets and reservations requested (408) 624-1581.

'Sounding sculpture' shown locally

By JOHN DETRO

INTERACTIVE ELECTRONIC devices have nothing on sculptor Winni Brueggemann, now represented by Highlands Gallery of Carmel.

The Pennsylvania gentleman creates "sounding" pieces which respond to touches from human hands.

About 15 of these works will be observable — and playable, one might say — when Highlands holds a public reception for him next week. Specific time: from 4-7 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 3. (The gallery may be found between Fifth and Sixth along Dolores.)

"These sculptures are kinetic and participatory as well as pleasing to the eye," says Highlands Director Diana Higgins. "They make sounds when you touch them; they move and vibrate. Topmost elements are mounted on beryllium rods which give off a gentle, soft sound outside. Inside — well, you yourself do the touching and make the sound loud or soft."

According to Higgins, Brueggemann visited Carmel while on his quest for "West Coast representation. He chose us, and I'm delighted. It was such an unusual thing when he came in that we made an exception and took on this non-local artist."

Mechanical applied physics

Brueggemann's bio says he was born in Germany and earned degrees in mechanical applied physics and orthopedics at the University of Munster. Soon after his arrival in this country (1958) "his development as an artist began with metal fabrications characterized by primitive, functional honesty...candlesticks, mugs, vases, ashtrays and even furniture (in) strong folk art motifs...."

Through his mentor, Klaud Ihlinfeld, Brueggemann met the sculptor Harry Bertoia and began an association which lasted until Bertoia's death (1978).

Clearly influenced by "Bertoian modalities," particularly Sounding Sculpture, Brueggemann says his "output in this genre is highly individual" since he has been "developing the Bertoian techniques tangentially with the incorporation of my own architectural forms and concepts."

Organic, atavistic

He adds that the creations (bronze, copper, brass, the beryllium) are variously cast and fabricated "into atavistic, organic forms as well as lustrous human-scale totems. Sounding sculptures display a wide range in size — some rising to a height of 11 feet."

The constructions "derive from and depend largely upon elemental laws of physics and kinetic principles," the bio continues, with "the surface only scratched in terms of the possibilities offered."

Galleries in New York, Arizona and Pennsylvania feature his work. And now there's the Sept. 3 reception here at Carmel.

Funtime notebook includes jazz gig

PORTOFINO CAFE of Pacific Grove will spotlight acoustic trio jazz on Thursday evening, Aug. 27, as bassist Bryan McConnell, tenorman Les Rose and drummer John Goldsmith pull out all the stops.

Starting at 8 p.m. they will feature compositions by such giants as Charles Mingus, Miles Davis, Ben Webster. Door charge: $5 per.

Seating is limited. Call 373-7379 for reservations.

Art roundup: new photo show opens

The Moss Landing power plant at night. By Deanna Forbes.

By JOHN DETRO

THE VISUAL art scene moves along at a healthy clip. Like so—

New color photographs by Cole Weston and Clinton Smith are showing through Sept. 22 at Weston Gallery (Sixth near Lincoln in Carmel). Information: 624-4453.

Meanwhile, Carmel's Ledbetter Studio Gallery (on Lincoln between Ocean and Seventh) enters its third year. The occasion will be marked with a reception there between 4-7 p.m. on Saturday (8/29).

Painer Emy Ledbetter will show her latest series: White Light. One critic observes:

"The exotic Far Eastern, Native American and mystical images appear to come from some intimate knowledge of these cultures, but Emy insists that they spring as often fully-formed personalities from her inner self...Emy has developed a mixed media process on canvas involving acrylics and a resist process that is repeated again and again, layer by layer. A textured field is established as both foreground and background. Ultimately figures emerge. It is this emergence that gives to (her) paintings their special radiance and mysterious appeal."

Welcoming Georges

The French painter Georges Damin last visited this area a decade ago. Zantman Galleries of Carmel will welcome him with a reception on Friday between 3-6 p.m. "in the small gallery" at Sixth and Dolores. (There's a second Zantman location on Sixth.)

The event originally was scheduled Saturday, but Damin's packed schedule evidenced some conflict and the new date was selected.

Zantman thus will open its first one-man show for Damin: "French city scenes, landscapes, anchored boats, snowy woods." He often uses mixed media; white dominates and gives the works clarity and strength as well as cohesion.

"Besides painting his hometown of Lyon," Zantman program notes say, "Damin also enjoys painting the intensity of sun and color in southern France and Greece. (As quite a young man he) met such important artists as Dunoyer de Segonzac and Picasso. It was through them that he developed the feel for rich color which, added to his original graphic style, gave him the identity which he enjoys today."

Nantucket baskets

Unusual offerings are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday (8/29-30) by Stefan Mann Luggage and Leathergoods on Dolores between Fifth and Sixth in Carmel. They will occur from 9:30-5:30 both days.

East Coast craftsman Joshua Maresca will present demonstrations of weaving distinctive Nantucket Lightship baskets. Their history dates back to the Algonquin Indians, he says — "the first to devise splint baskets made of long thin ribbons of ash, hickory or oak."

Later, the baskets were made by "lonely sailors who tended lightships off the New England coast...The design changed drastically in the 1830s when artisans switched from hickory splints and woven bottoms to

Jazz Tides

By John Detro

Behind the scenes

IT'S SAD that Peter couldn't be reached for comment. In a nutshell, Peter McCoy left his post as general manager of KJAZ Radio. Today Tim Hodges handles those chores along with the program director's many tasks.

The story was well worth chasing down. This area's jazz buffs have strong feelings about the Alameda-based outlet.

When MPTV kicked KJAZ off the cable in favor of a new digital music service for stereo owners, public reaction was so strong that MPTV execs said they would bring back the jazz station this week (8/27).

And KJAZ has a full-coverage contract with Monterey Jazz Festival. This pact began last year and runs through 1993. MJF Board Prexy Doc Etienne said when told of McCoy's departure: "What a shock. Peter's such a fine guy — and a real pleasure to work with."

Cowan's words

Land developer Ron Cowan owns KJAZ. Without fuss and bother, he agreed to a telephone interview.

"We had to balance the budget," Cowan said. "We're in tough economic times. Yes, we had a 10 percent pay cut (at KJAZ) recently and some strong feelings arose. I don't know if Peter wanted to be part of all that. We discussed the situation. Peter had other options. His leaving was by mutual agreement."

What about wide rumors that KJAZ either would be sold or file for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection? "We're the oldest and only full-time commercial jazz station," Cowan replied. "The books are balanced. We're here to stay. Tim Hodges wanted the (GM) challenge. So that's what we're doing. I wish him well."

Someone on that work scene expressed surprise that the KJAZ locks were changed — front door, production studio, so on. But a longtime staffer explained: "That's simply (Cowan) company policy. Whenever an executive leaves, get new locks."

Why were deejays and other staff angry? "We felt that Peter knew about the pay cut two months before he told us," the veteran said. "He said he wanted to prevent the cuts and find savings in other places. The pay reduction was a catalyst. People felt — and I think this was general — that we didn't have the leadership to get us through hard times."

Would the Monterey Jazz Festival agreement be affected? "That relationship is solid," Cowan said. "We're very happy with it."

"Right now," the veteran staffer said, "our ties (with MJF) look fine. If things change, you'll be the first to know."

MEANWHILE: MJF announces that grounds admission tickets will go on sale Sept. 3 — $15 per for Friday (9/18) and $20 on Saturday and the Sunday (9/19-20). Closest outlets are Seaside/Sand City Chamber of Commerce (394-6501) and Gadsby's Music of Salinas (800-225-6421). Unless plans change, Gadsby's in Pacific Grove will not carry the bargain ducats.

Those wishing arena seats should call Jan at the MJF office (373-3366) and see if there are any season tickets left. Grounds admission tickets mean access to Garden Stage, Night Club, the fairway booth action. They're good for all day and all night as long as one doesn't leave the place.

The grounds talent booked by Tim Jackson cannot be called anything but significant — Roy Hargrove Quintet, brilliant pianist Susan Muscarella with the Paul Contos Quartet, Eiji Kitamura Quintet, Cal Tjader alumni unit named Radcliffe, Siberian Express Jazz Band, Vinx, Kevin Gibbs Trio, Ali Ryerson Quartet, John Cortes Quartet. And that's just Friday evening.

Saturday Night Club — Billy Childs, Fowler Brothers, Kitty Margolis plus Dick Hindman Trio, Weber Drummond and Zen Blend.

Saturday afternoon blues show (Garden Stage) — Junior Wells, Katie Webster, Charlie Musselwhite and Luther Tucker, Bluesman Willie and his South Street Runners, Professor's Blues Revue with Jimmy Dawkins, acoustic set by Ron Thompson and Mark Naftalin.

Saturday night Garden Stage — Steve Erquiaga Band, Ed Kelly Trio, Claudia Villela and Jon Gold, Peter Apfelbaum's Hieroglyphics Ensemble.

Sunday Garden Stage — Monterey County Honor Band (students), Folsom High and Berkeley High big bands (1992 competition winners), Smith Dobson Jr. Quintet, Ace Hill Trio, Papa Jake and those Abalone Stompers, Big Wing Band, New World Trio, A Little Night Music, great vocalist Nancy King with bassist Glen Moore, Rick Hollander Quartet.

Sunday Night Club — Larry Vuckovich International Quintet, Buddy Connor and Entourage, Eddie Marshall Band, Big Wing.

AS YOU likely know, MJF founder Jimmy Lyons retires after this year's edition. San Francisco Mayor Frank Jordan declared last Sunday (8/23) the citywide Jimmy Lyons Day.

A goodly crowd showed up for the Jimmy Celebration Committee's party for him at Bimbo's. MC Scott Beach introduced the Vernon Alley Quartet, Full Faith and Credit Big Band, Dick Partee Quartet.

Here at home, invitations have gone out for the Jimmy Lyons Tribute Luncheon on Sept. 18 at Spanish Bay Inn. Sue Dewar says she mailed hundreds and hundreds of them.

Proceeds will benefit the new Lyons Scholarship Fund of MJF. The John Cortes Band has been approached about playing that occasion.

Chan coordinates the Playboy Jazz Fest and got her start as a MJF volunteer. Jean's the widow of late jazz critic Ralph Gleason, who helped Jimmy develop the fest vision.

AVEC FEELING: Starting next week (9/3), jazzman Nick Williams will have a new schedule for those two-hour sessions at Carmel's Vista Lobos Park. "We'll go to the first and third Thursdays of each month," he says, "in the place now known as Joe's Lumber Room."

There will be an optional $5 door charge each night to pay the players and supply refreshments (Nick doesn't take a cut). The basic unit: Williams on many different instruments, Bucky Boynes (piano), Carl Lo Schiavo (bass), Marty Bartoli (drums). Others like jamming there because the mood's so easy. Info: 626-9151.

• Fort Ord Jazz Ensemble will offer a free concert at 2 p.m. Sunday (8/30) on the Colton Hall lawn. Monterey City Hall says bring picnic baskets, blankets and chairs.

• Jazz critic Grover Sales offers a course on jazz vocalists for Stanford Continuing Studies starting Oct. 5. Info: (415) 725-2650.

• The knockout Tex Mex band Bronze works Doc Ricketts' Lab on Sunday night (8/30). Tickets required — 649-4244. Trumpeter Bob Ojeda blazes on.

• The Cortes Quintet with trumpet adept Oscar Williams plays Kuumbwa Jazz Center of Santa Cruz on Friday night (8/28). Eight o'clock kick; $5 per at the door only.

On Monday evening (8/31) it's the McCoy Tyner Trio with special guest Bobby Hutcherson on vibes. Shows at 7:30 and 9:30; $16 advance (Ticketmaster) or $18 at the door.

• Portofino Coffee House spotlights Jim Scott on Friday night (8/28). This singer formerly was with the Paul Winter Consort. Opening will be the a capella vocal quartet Carry It Home. Starts at eight; $8 per.

• Freddie Hubbard, Yellowjackets, Narada Michael Walden and The Brotherhood, Junior Walker All-Stars, Pancho Sanchez, Keiko Matsui, Erquiaga. They and others will play the Labor Day Weekend (9/5-7) in Sharon Meadow of San Francisco's Golden Gate Park. Proceeds to SF Shakespeare Festival. Tickets at the gate — $6 adults, $4 seniors, children under 12 free.

• India's Clay Oven in Monterey offers live music — sitar, tabla drummers — Sunday nights.

• Dave Frishberg will do a benefit late in September for Tassajara Zen Center (9/27). At Yoshi's near the Oakland/Berkeley line.

The Nat Adderley Quintet also will be there (9/9-12) — Nat on cornet, Vincent Herring (alto sax), Rob Bargad (piano), the legendary Walter Booker and Jimmy Cobb on bass and drums (respectively).

CELEBRATING AMERICA'S CLASSICAL MUSIC...

AMAZING MONTEREY JAZZ FESTIVAL

Ticket sales start April 1 (373-3366). Co-producers Jimmy Lyons and Tim Jackson announce a gathering of giants for September's 35th fest (9/18-9/20). Jimmy, in his last year, has signed jazz greats who played the first edition (1958). Dizzy Gillespie, Dave Brubeck, Modern Jazz Quartet, Gerry Mulligan. Tim's picks: Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra (Duke Ellington repertoire unit with Wynton Marsalis as artistic director). Branford Marsalis small group, Betty Carter, Yellowjackets, Billy Childs Quintet. Miles Davis Tribute with Herbie Hancock, Wayne Shorter, Ron Carter, Tony Williams. Also The Quartet: Kenny Burrell, Jimmy Smith, Stanley Turrentine, Grady Tate. Others, too. You can't go wrong with this year's Monterey Jazz Festival.

ANNIE'S BOOK STOP

"It was love at first sight," Jennora Grieman says of when she met 35-year husband John. "We were married about three months after we met in Monterey."

The book-loving pair built Annie's Book Stop with the same sense of joy. Warm, bright, cheery. Deep carpeting that you can sit on while browsing. The special children's area with books and play space.

And 15,000 pre-read paperbacks in 40 categories. Every title is about half the original price.

Best sellers, coffee table formats. You can't go wrong at Annie's. "Today's books at yesterday's prices," John says with a smile. "That's more than a slogan – we really like the folks who come in because they like to read." 1760 Fremont (Olympia Plaza), Seaside. Phone: 394-1452.

CARMEL BOOK EMPORIUM

This fine bookshop emphasizes high quality and 60 sections (ultimately 100) and a big stone fireplace round which folks may browse contentedly. Management promises computerized ordering that assures "the best possible turnaround time."

Special attention is given to mysteries, creative writing, the lively arts - and of course the tops in contemporary fiction. Videos include such special contexts as Oscar-winning Best Pictures over the past 20 years. And PBS productions. And music tapes and CDs (local players too). Before long, Carmel Book Emporium will add a cafe - perfect meeting spot.

On Lobos Lane in The Crossroads (a few steps from Safeway). Open 10-6 Sunday/Thursday; 10-8 Friday/Saturday. 626-BOOK.

MONTEREY BAY COFFEEHOUSE BOOKSHOP

Opened by Estelle Cimino in November 1991, this downtown spot (472 Alvarado St.) has an airy and bright atmosphere that seems made for book lovers. "I've had a passion for books ever since I was a child," Estelle comments. Her caring can be seen in the full children's section, Arts, Self-Help, Business, Spirituality .....dozens of well-stocked categories. And the audio department delights with best-sellers read by excellent performers. "I really believe people come into a bookstore on a quest," she continues. "It's gratifying to be able to help our customers find the treasures they are seeking." The comfy coffee'shop serves light lunches and desserts in addition to a fine array of espresso drinks. For-sale music CD's and cassettes provide a soothing and relaxing background. Computerized ordering. Magazines galore. Ample parking in rear lot. Hours: 9-10 Monday-Thursday; 9-10:30 Friday, Saturday. And 10-8 Sunday. 647-1822.

THE SAN JOSE FLEA MARKET

A thousand garage sales...a hundred farmer's markets...an international bazaar... a country fair...The San Jose Flea Market is Northern California's largest attraction. Open air shopping for fanfastic bargains, good food & refreshments, live entertainment, and fun are in store for the whole family. Over 120 acres of selling spaces, parks, a 1/4 mile shade-covered produce row, more than 2,000 stores, easy in-and-out parking, amusements and 25+ restaurants are devoted to your pleasure and comfort. Open Wed.-Sun. On weekends the entire flea market grounds are open. Wednesday is the busiest day, while Thursdays and Fridays are more like a neighborhood flea market. Admission is free. Parking is $3 per car on the weekends and free parking weekdays. Join our flea market family shoppers at the original (California's oldest) San Jose Flea Market. 1590 Berryessa Road, San Jose between Highways 101 and 680. (408) 453-1110.

Nirvana of a kind

DOES NIRVANA smell like rich paper and superior binding? Whatever the answer, Paradise of a certain sort will happen on Friday and Saturday (8/28-29) for serious book people.

Place: Monterey Conference Center.

That's where we'll see one of the largest Antiquarian Book Fairs ever held along the Central Coast.

According to the event producers — California Book Fair Associates of Ventura — more than 70 dealers from throughout California and the West will offer for sale books by the thousands. And autographs, prints, ephemera, related paper collectibles.

These dealers are the ones who carry rare, used and out-of-print books. Official word: "Thousands of visitors are expected to attend this Monterey Book Fair. There will be something for everyone — from first-time buyers to seasoned collectors. Prices will range from a few dollars to many thousands."

The fair will kick off at 6 p.m. Friday and shut down at 10 p.m. The Saturday hours — 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Admission is $5 (both days) or $3 (Saturday only).

Author and newspaper columnist Al Martinez will be on hand. He will sign his new book — Dancing Under the Moon — between 1-2 p.m. on Saturday.

Writer Lee R. (Dick) Hayman of Salinas will speak on one of his favorite subjects — John Steinbeck — at 2 p.m. Saturday. Hayman conducts tours all over Steinbeck Country and includes The Young John Steinbeck among his written works.

"I'll be hitting on Steinbeck's use of specific places in his novels," Hayman told this column — "places that can still be observed and identified today. I'll cite spots in Monterey, Pacific Grove, Carmel Valley and Salinas."

Martinez has won many honors for his journalism: National Ernie Pyle Award, National Headliner Award, National Society of Newspaper Columnists (in the "top three" for 1988), Pulitzer Prize Gold Medal (Meritorious Public Services), Western Environmental Council Award, San Francisco Press Club Award, others.

BREAK OUT those manuscripts. Poetry Shell of the Monterey Peninsula has just announced the 1992 poetry contest. Only area residents may enter. Deadline is Oct. 16.

Entries are sought in four categories: adult serious verse, adult light verse, teenage (13-17), juvenile (12 and under).

Each contestant may submit no more than three unpublished poems (25 lines or less) in each category. Entires should be typed, one poem per page, on standard typing paper.

Adults should type name, address and telephone number on a separate sheet of paper to ensure anonymity during judging, and should indicate the category (serious or light).

Teens and juveniles should put name, address, telephone number and age above each poem — not on a separate paper.

Cash prizes will be awarded in each category, including that of Honorable Mention. Send entries to Jose Abarrientos, Poetry Shell Contest, 703 Lighthouse, Pacific Grove 93950.

Abarrientos will offer a breakdown on prize monies and any other details if he's called at 646-9673.

Hidden Valley offers recital

HIDDEN VALLEY announces a vocal recital which concludes its Institute for Dramatic Voices. This event will start at 8 p.m. Friday (8/28).

The recital culminates nationwide auditions and a two-week intensive training program. Overall aim: enlarge the pool of talents capable of singing Verdi, Wagner and Strauss operas.

The program will include arias and ensembles by Puccini as well as Verdi and Wagner. Tickets ($10 adults, $8 seniors and students under 18) will be available at the door. Or call the reservations number — 659-3115.

Conceived and overseen by Henry Holt, the Institute offers personalized training in all facets of opera to a dozen professional singers from across this nation.

Holt assembled a distinguished faculty: noted director Glynn Ross and singers Richard Cassilly, Edna Garabedian, Sheila Jones Harms. Coaches and lecturers round out the concept.

round solid bottoms and woven rattan to create the style of Nantucket."

Maresca says his large baskets take about 80 hours to make and the smaller ones about 50 hours. "Now I am addicted to basketry and keep experimenting with various molds and designs."

He adds that Nantucket baskets first were used as handbags with woven lids in 1948. "A woman suggested that small scrimshaw whales be placed on a wooden base on the lid (and that was) the beginning of the Nantucket handbag which is so popular today."

The baskets are famed for their tight weave and almost indestructible quality. Maresca: "Short of runing over it in a car, you can't hurt it."

Juried exhibit

The Center for Photographic Art in Carmel's Sunset Complex announces its 1992 Juried Photographic Exhibition. Entry prints now are being accepted from both Center members and non-members. Deadline: Sept. 4 at 3 p.m.

"This show is open to all photographic artists in all areas of the medium," according to spokesperson Diane Hanek. "Three awards will be given — one $200 Award of Excellence and two $100 Awards of Merit."

Jurors are Leland Rice and Maria Lindley. Both have juried and curated many photographic shows. He's a respected photographer and writer, while she's a noted consultant and ex-director of the Weston Gallery in Carmel.

A public reception for the artists will be held between 6:30-8 at the Center on Friday, Sept. 18. The photographs will be on view through Oct. 30.

For entry fee/form information, call the Center at 625-5181. "It is suggested that artists submit their work as soon as possible," Diane adds, "since we anticipate a large volume."

After dusk

An exhibition of works by Deanna Forbes — Night Paintings — opens Tuesday (9/1) at the gallery in Santa Catalina School Library. Then it will continue through Oct. 18 with a reception for the artist to be held in the same gallery from 6-8 p.m. on Sept. 11.

There will be two series: Yucatan and the Moss Landing power plant. All subjects were painted after dark.

Forbes graduated from San Francisco Art Institute and has painted for three decades — primarily in oils. Her awards and solo shows have been many.

At fair

Sea Scribes (Monterey Bay Calligraphy Guild) has items on display through Sunday (8/30) at Monterey County Fair.

Disney promises new, full-length animated film

HOW MANY of us grew up with Walt Disney films as sources of fun, wonder, information? More than a few.

It was a special kick this week to receive the list of upcoming releases from Disney Pictures. The studio has changed via its pursuit of adult audience share, but the name still rings bells.

The roster includes Disney's 31st full-length animated feature — Aladdin. This will go into wide release on Nov. 25.

Story: "A wisecracking Genie, a mischievous monkey named Abu and a magic carpet join forces to help Aladdin — an ambitious street-smart youth — discover his true potential and win the affection of a beautiful princess and defend the kingdom from a treacherous villain." Not a bad day's work.

The adventure fantasy boasts new songs and an original score by Academy Award composer Alan Menken. The late Howard Ashman, Menken's Oscar-winning partner, did the lyrics for three songs and Tony Award winner Tim Rice wrote the rest.

And....

Other Disney films announced at the same time:

Christmas release — The Distinguished Gentleman with Eddie Murphy, Joe Don Baker, Kevin McCarthy, Charles Dutton. When Florida Congressman Jeff Johnson dies, a small-time con man (Murphy) scams his own name onto the ballot and gets elected. Love changes him and soon he turns the tables on Washington's business as usual.

Christmas — The Muppet Christmas Carol. Director Brian Henson oversees Michael Caine, Miss Piggy, Kermit, Gonzo, Fozzie Bear, Rizzo Rat, so on. Musical adaptation of the classic Dickens tale about the conversion of Scrooge (Caine). Songs by Oscar winner Paul Williams.

Accused

Oct. 16 — Consenting Adults with Kevin Kline, Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio, E.G. Marshall, Forest Whitaker. A man is accused of having an affair with and then slaying a neighbor's wife. He (Kline) must "race against time to clear his name and save his family from a shocking fate." Alan Pakula directs.

Nov. 6 — Alive with Ethan Hawke, Vincent Spano, Josh Hamilton under Frank Marshall's direction. This real-life drama examines the fate of a South American rugby team whose plane crashes into the snowy Andes. "One of the most remarkable triumphs of the human spirit ever recorded."

Sooner

Sooner than those, Crossing the Bridge goes into release Sept. 11. Teen buddies get involved in drug smuggling across the Canadian border. One crucial decision could change their lives forever.

Sept. 25 (wide release) and Oct. 2 (wider) — Sarafina! Whoopi Goldberg and Miriam Makeba star in this adaptation from the hit Broadway musical. Goldberg plays a passionate school teacher in South Africa whose lessons don't come from approved textbooks. Student Sarafina (Leleti Khumalo) is compelled to defy school and government authorities.

Sea of comic stress

Sept. 18 — On the Wanderer (tentative title) with Kurt Russell, Martin Short, Mary Kay Place. Short inherits a dilapidated yacht. Captain Ron (Russell) "takes the helm and charts a course for misadventure...Salty comedy." Thom Eberhardt directs.

Oct. 9 — The Mighty Ducks with Emilio Estevez, Joss Ackland, Lane Smith under Stephen Herek's direction. Ruthless lawyer (Estevez) is forced to accept a community service assignment coaching pee wee hockey. The kids won't let his tactics ruin their good time.

Here's a sample from Aladdin out of the Disney Studios.

Muppets show Scrooge (Michael Caine) a better way.

Regetta scheduled

THE PLAZA Cup Regetta will be run for the sixth consecutive year on Monterey Bay on Sept. 12-13.

Co-sponsors Monterey Plaza Hotel and Monterey Peninsula Yacht Club say the featured class of sailboats will be the Santa Cruz 40's and Santana 35's.

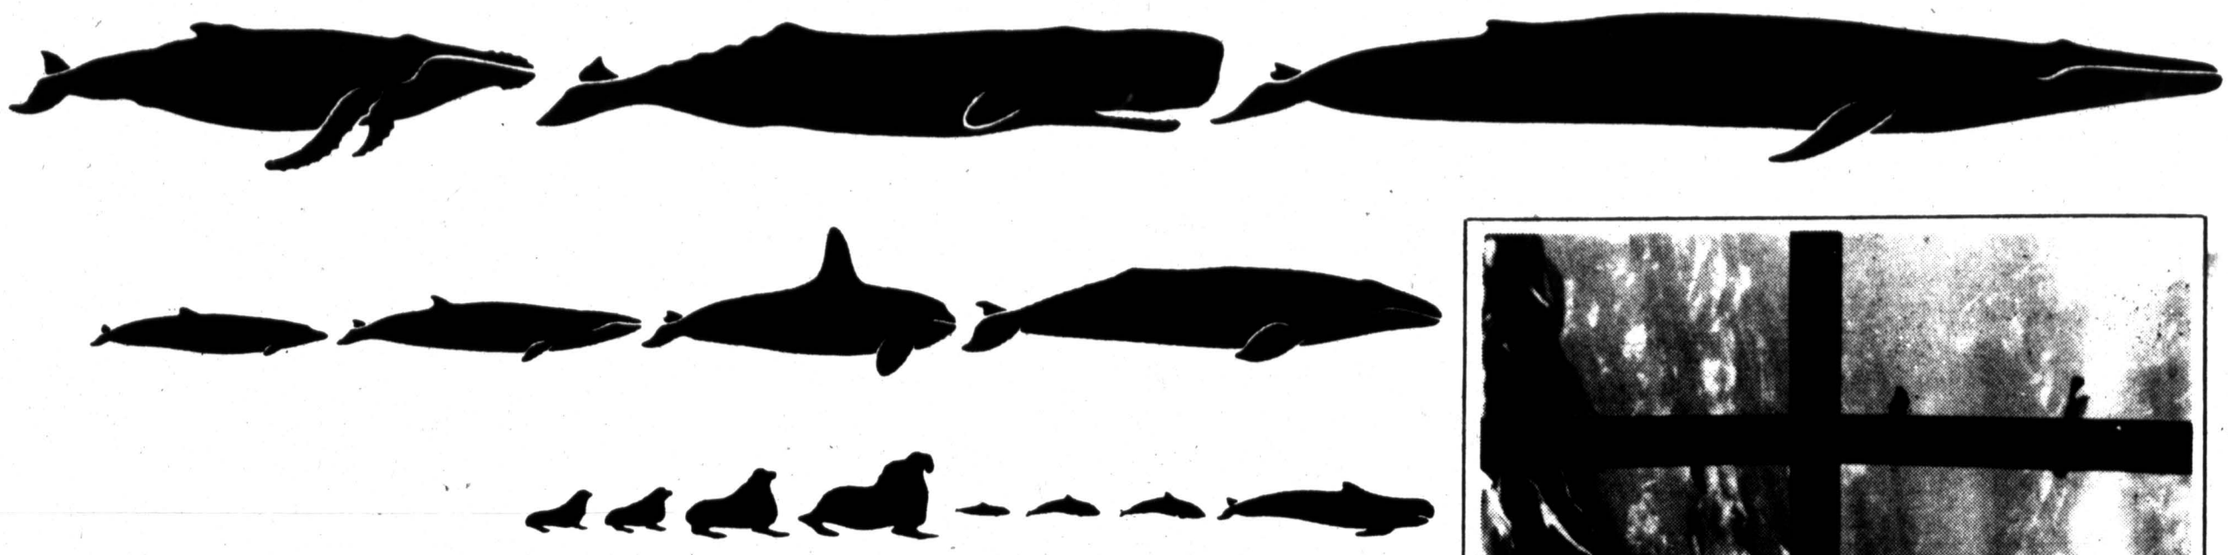
Monterey Bay Aquarium



THIS 335,000 gallon exhibit represents a diver's view of a towering kelp forest community. As giant kelp needs sunlight and wave motion to survive, the 28-foot-high tank is open to the sky. Jets hidden in the rockwork and a surge machine maintain vital water movement.

IT'S STATE-OF-THE-ART, affording an up-close and personal view of some 525 species of fishes, mammals, birds, invertebrates and plants found in Monterey Bay.

The Monterey Bay Aquarium, constructed "in the footprint" of the Hovden Cannery on the west end of Cannery Row – opened to the public in October 1984. A $50 million gift from David and Lucile Packard of Silicon Valley fame made into reality the conversion of a former cannery site into a celebration of colorful and complex Monterey Bay marine life, from sharks to brittlestars to sea otters.

Open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily except Christmas, the Monterey Bay Aquarium houses 23 major indoor and outdoor galleries and exhibits focusing on the many habitats of Monterey Bay. The aquarium is now a self-supporting, non-profit entity.

Rooflines and even lighting fixtures echo the original Cannery Row style documented by John Steinbeck in his 1945 novel of the same name. Visitors entering the aquarium walk past the original Hovden Cannery boilers, pumphouse and warehouse. These were virtually the only features that could be salvaged from the structure. The rest of the aquarium is new and strictly high-tech. Its 33 major exhibit windows, manufactured by Mitsubishi Rayon of Japan, include panels that are seven and one-quarter inches thick and weight 2.73 tons each. Two 16-inch diameter, 980-foot-long intake lines draw up to 2,050 gallons of sea water per minute from a depth of 55 feet in Monterey Bay. The seawater system permits varying levels of filtration – depending on the needs of the 6,500 specimens that live in the aquarium. These levels range from raw seawater to pressure-sand filtered, de-embolyzed seawater.

And then there are the animals. The Monterey Bay Aquarium is a place where visitors can gaze up into the cathedral-like branches of a kelp forest as a diver explains its intricacies from the other side of a seven-inch-thick window, stare eye-to-eye with a tank's worth of frisky sea otters and brave petting a bat ray that has no stinger.

Virtually all of its inhabitants can be found in Monterey Bay.

Also described by many as "a gawker," the third-of-a-million gallon Kelp Forest exhibit presents a diver's-eye view of a complex undersea community. The exhibit can be viewed from three levels within the aquarium, and houses a towering forest of Macrocystis pyrifera, the California coastline's giant kelp. Jets hidden in the rockwork walls and a surge machine maintain the constant water motion kelp requires. This seaweed, which locally grows up to 10 inches a day, forms a canopy open to the sunlight at the surface.

Also in the "gawker" category is the Monterey Bay Habitats exhibit, a 90-foot-long, hourglass-shaped tank that depicts four bay habitats: the deep reefs, sandy seafloor, shale reefs and the wharf. Large sharks, bat rays, salmon, striped bass and other open-ocean fishes roam the Monterey Bay exhibit. Viewers have a choice to observe the goings-on through bubble-shaped windows or a series of massive acrylic panes.

An interlocking series of habitat galleries and interpretive exhibits explores the facts, myths and mysteries of marine life in the region. Here the curious may study an elegant chambered nautilus hovering in mid-water, sleek and speedy squid, the giant octopus, hermit crabs, sand dollars and dozens of other oceanic denizens.

The Monterey Bay Aquarium operates many programs, including research and education. Approximately 100,000 persons are members, entitling them to unlimited admission, a newsletter, special programs and other benefits. For details, call (408) 648-4888.

The Monterey Bay Aquarium is located at 886 Cannery Row on its west end, between the borders of Monterey and Pacific Grove. Admission is $9 general, $6.50 for students, active-duty military and senior citizens (65 and over), $4 for children ages 3 through 12. Group rates for 20 or more are available by reservation. Call (408) 648-4860, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Tickets can also be pre-ordered through Ticketron outlets. There are no Ticketron outlets on the Monterey Peninsula, however.

All exhibits are wheelchair-accessible.

For recorded information about the aquarium, call (408) 648-4888.

For the convenience of aquarium visitors who have their own cars, parking is available at the Cannery Row Parking Garage. Rates are 75 cents per hour, up to a $5 maximum.

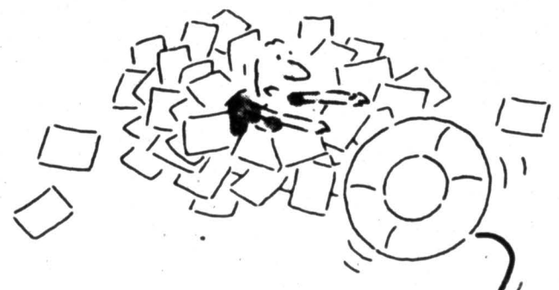
THE GOOD NEWS IS YOU HAVE HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.

Finding out you've got high blood pressure is half the battle. With a plan for exercise, weight control, salt reduction and medication, the rest is easy.

If you have high blood pressure, get on a good program and stick with it. And do what your doctor says. Then there probably won't be any bad news.



THERE ARE VOLUNTEERS TO HELP MAKE YOUR TAXES LESS TAXING.

TAKE VINCE AND LARRY'S CRASH COURSE IN SAFETY BELTS.

LESSON NO. 1

"As you know, Larry, pretty soon all cars will come with automatic safety belts or air bags—and I don't mean your mother-in-law!"

"That's right, Vince, but these new automatic gizmos only do part of the job to keep you from being a windshield warrior. You've still got to make sure your safety belt is buckled up."

YOU COULD LEARN A LOT FROM A DUMMY. BUCKLE YOUR SAFETY BELT.

Alzheimer's support group meets

The Alzheimer's Association of Monterey County is a non-profit organization committed to assisting caregivers and family of persons with Alzheimer's Disease or related dementia. Dementia is a medical term for the group of symptoms of deterioration of intellectual function such as memory loss, confusion, and impaired judgment that is severe enough to interfere with work of social activities. The group offers information and support to help caregivers cope with the problems associated with dementia. The Monterey office is located in Mariposa Hall at 801 Lighthouse Ave. The group meets 1:30 to 3 p.m. the second Tuesday of the month and 5:15 to 6:45 p.m. the fourth Monday. For information, contact Toni Jacobsen at 647-9890.

Orchestra opportunities available

Do you have a child in the fourth through the eight grades who would like to play an instrument? Beginning, intermediate, advanced lessons and a chance to be part of an orchestra are being offered to all peninsula public and independent school children on Monday afternoons at All Saint's Day School in Carmel. For more information call 624-9171.

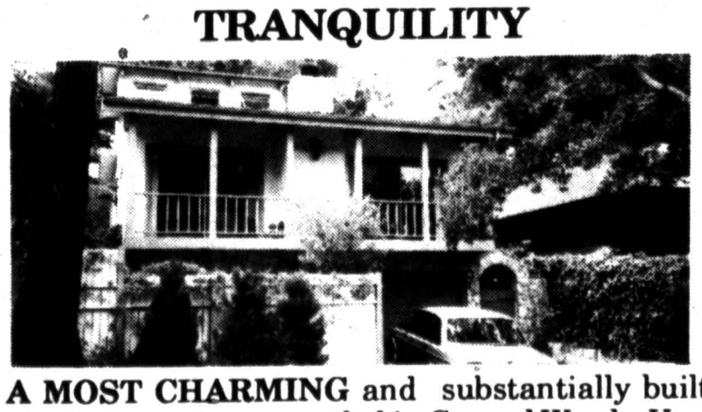
CARMEL QUIET

A LIVING ROOM... with corner fireplace and a vaulted ceiling feature this compact three-bedroom home that's just come on the market. There's a separate dining room, and a convenient laundry porch off the kitchen. Two baths, hardwood floors, and brick patio with outdoor fireplace are among the other features. Priced to sell at $349,000.

TRANQUILITY

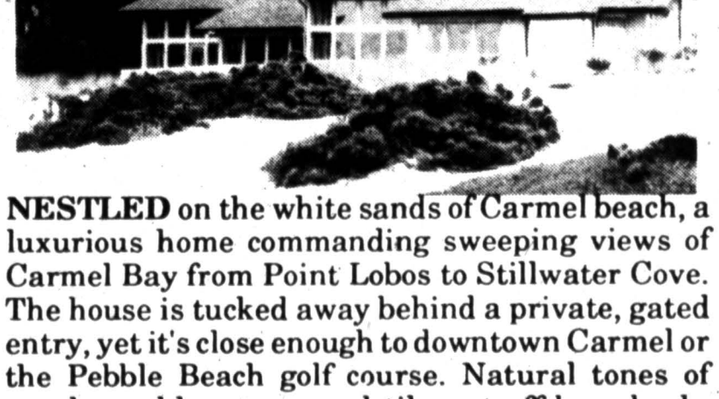


A MOST CHARMING and substantially built two-bedroom home nestled in Carmel Woods. Versatile floor plan with vaulted open-beam ceilings creates an atmosphere of warmth, light and space. Remodeled kitchen, two and one-half baths, small office room, Carmel-stone patio PLUS an attractive guest unit with private entrance, hidden in the trees. Immaculate and a joy to show! $489,000.

LARGE FAMILY

A COMFORTABLE Comstock-built home on an oak-studded half-acre in the estate area of Carmel's Hatton Fields. It's a home made for the big family—four bedrooms, each with its own bath, plus a separate guest unit. A big laundry room could be used to enlarge the guest room, or perhaps serve as a sixth bedroom. The spacious living room with its open beamed ceiling and big fireplace looks out to a lovely garden with mature oaks. Outside is a brick patio where you can entertain al fresco. $850,000.

SAND AND SEA



NESTLED on the white sands of Carmel beach, a luxurious home commanding sweeping views of Carmel Bay from Point Lobos to Stillwater Cove. The house is tucked away behind a private, gated entry, yet it's close enough to downtown Carmel or the Pebble Beach golf course. Natural tones of wood, marble, stone, and tile, set off by a background of white, lend a light and airy atmosphere to the interior. Cathedral ceilings and expanses of glass capture every aspect of the stunning view. $2,700,000.
